Room for One

Kingston's three mayoral candidates created something of a crowd on the ballot this year, not to mention the polling booth as evidenced by this Freeman photo. On the left is incumbent Democrat Francis R. Koenig and his two challengers, Bernard Singer, the Conservative and William K. Darling, the Republican. Koenig is seeking his fourth term in office. Singer is runninig for mayor for the second time (he ran in 1969) while this is Darling's first attempt at political office. (Freeman photo)

Curtain Time

Lewis Kirschner (L) gives his Republican opponent Albert Spada a hand as they check out the voting machine prior to today's balloting which will determine whether Spada extends his nine-year reign as county clerk for another three or whether Democrat Kirschner scores what many consider would be a major upset. Also on the ballot is a Conservative, William Hegeman, who chose not to campaign. (Freeman photo).

Darling to Singer . . . 'Withdraw' Dem, GOP Chairmen Confident

KINGSTON

Republican candidate William K. Darling, figuring three's a crowd in this year's mayoral race, has called on Conservative Bernard Singer to withdraw in order to give Darling a better chance of defeating the incumbent, Democrat Francis R. Koenig.

Declaring that "a vote for Conservative Candidate Singer is assuring the reelection of Mayor Koenig," Darling argued that Singer can't win but he can (virtually) guarantee that Koenig doesn't lose.

Darling also insists that there is little difference between positions taken by him and those taken by Singer. Both men have heavily attacked Koenig since the beginning of their respective campaigns.

"If Bernie Singer truly has the city at heart, let him demonstrate this by graciously bowing out of the race." Darling said. "I feel I can safely say that I have narrowed the gap to the point where it is neck and neck and a vote for a third party splinter candidate will indeed only elect the individual which we both feel must be defeated, the mayor. A vote for Bernie Singer will not hurt the mayor but most logically draw support that might otherwise come to me."

Darling also cites Singer's losing record in the past as evidence (in Darling's opinion) that Singer does not have widespread support. Singer ran for mayor in 1969 as a Conservative, polling about 1,200 votes. He ran for alderman-at-large as a Conservative with Republican endorsement in 1971 and polled some 3,500 votes.

"I feel I have a much better chance of unseating the mayor than anyone has had in the last decade," Darling said. "Mr. Singer has run many times and each time proclaims that the majority of the people agree with neither major party and therefore will vote for him. History has proven otherwise.

"I know full well that Mr. Singer can call upon me to do the same thing, however, I think that most people realize that when you have lost as many times as he has in bid for public office it clearly indicates lack of public support," Darling said.

"If Mr. Singer and his supporters truly believe that the Koenig Machine must be defeated and they are really interested in the fate of this great colonial city, they will bond together in our common cause to restore responsible government that is long overdue," Darling concluded.

KINGSTON

Hope springs eternal in the hearts of political chairmen and this year is no different.

Predictions range from "a clean sweep" to "we're going to have some representation" but in every case everybody figures to improve their situation this year.

Even Frank Fabbie, the beleagured leader of the City Republican Party, which despite a 3-2 edge in enrollment has only one elected official out of 22 and he's not running this year. Alderman Brian Smith (R-Third Ward) lost an intra-ward battle and will be sitting this one out.

Fabbie's Republican Party, down 12-1 in the Common Council, has failed to carry a single voting district in the city in a mayoral election since 1965.

This year he thinks his mayoral candidate, William K. Darling, has a chance. "I think it will be a very close race," says Fabbie. But his predictions are tempered by the fact that the man Darling has to beat has won by an average of 4,100 votes the last three times and that Mayor Francis R. Koenig put on another effective campaign in 1975.

Fabbie's opposite number, Democratic Chairman Larry Woerner, is a believer. "We got the horses and we did the job and we're gonna win," says Woerner.

Woerner has been party chairman for some five years now and during that time his predictions have stood up. Fabbie thinks the Republicans will carry a few seats in the Common Council. Woerner is talking about a shutout

Out in the county the Republicnas hold sway but Democratic County Chariman Hal Brown thinks things will change this year.

It's going to be ladies day in the legislature," predicts Brown who has 11 women running under the Democratic banner.

Brown is less optimistic about the chances of his candidates for Surrogate Judge (William Mullany against Arthur Davis, the incumbent) and county clerk (Lewis Kirschner against Albert Spada, the incumbent). "I give them a 50-50 chance," he concedes. "It's not easy when you're outnumbered 2-1 in enrollment."

The afore-mentioned, Spada, also GOP chairman, sees his party enhancing its 20-13 majority in the county legislature. "I can see us gaining about three seats," he says. "I figure we'll pick up a few in the city and one in the outskirts. Maybe four or five in the Common Council."

UPI DATELINE

Anti-Terrorist Unit

LOS ANGELES — A routine police report apparently has revealed the existence of a confidential new FBI anti-terrorist unit.

The FBI Terrorism Research and Management Staff was formed recently to gather information on terrorist tactics in the United States and abroad and to disseminate information to local police forces, the report said.

The Los Angeles Times reported today that FBI headquarters in Washington would not discuss the existence of the unit, other than to say, "We are active in this area" and that information about it given to Los Angeles Police was supposed to be "semi-confidential."

Franco Still 'Grave'

MADRID, Spain — Doctors described Generalissimo Francisco Franco's chances of survival as "very grave" today despite a dramatic, three-hour operation that saved him from bleeding to death.

"Now there is nothing to do but pray," Franco's military aide told hundreds of somber Spaniards waiting outside the yellow and white walls of the generalissimo's suburban palace.

A team of surgeons worked until early today to save the 82-year-old Spanish leader, using nearly two gallons of blood transfusions during an operation that stopped "massive and uncontrollable" internal bleeding.

Canal Traffic

EILAT, Israel — A rusting Greek freighter brought a load of cement to the southern port of Eilat today, the first cargo to reach Israel through the Suez Canal in 16 years. A second ship was expected within a week.

The freighter Olympos, carrying 8,500 tons of Romanian cement, docked at 2:17 a.m. after passing through the 100-mile-long waterway Sunday.

Israeli Transport Minister Gad Ya'acobi, who watched the vessel sail into port, said the second ship would go through the canal within a week.

8 Dead in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — For the first time in two months Lebanese poured into Beirut's streets today while security forces enforced the 12th cease-fire called in the two months since the latest round of violence.

Fierce street fighting between Moslem leftists and right-wing Christians throughout the capital and its suburbs left about 1,200 persons dead and more than 3,000 wounded in the past eight weeks.

Lebanese internal security forces took control of roads leading into the city, and Beirut radio announced traffic was functioning normally.

Kissinger's Power Is Short-Circuited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Age of Kissinger may be over.

In the eyes of White House officials, President Ford has stripped Henry Kissinger of his prime power source — his workaday morning hour in the Oval Office.

Kissinger himself has based his clout not on being secretary of state, which he remains.

Kissinger has not built his power through being the President's national security affairs adviser, the keeper and administrator of the chief executive's foreign and defense policy matters, the post Ford has taken and given to Kissinger's deputy, Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft.

Kissinger built his power and his glory through exercising on former President Richard Nixon and on Ford the talents which — in negotiations with the Russians, the Chinese, the captains and kings of other lands — only recently made him the wonder of the diplomatic world.

The outward and visible sign of Kissinger's power has not been his U.S. Air Force Boeing 707 jet. It has not even been his corner office, decorated with precious oriental carpets and a classic Albers oil painting, down the hall from Ford's oval office.

It has been the sight of his black limousine tailed by his station wagon load of Secret Service bodyguards parked on the driveway out front while, inside the White House west wing, Kissinger was having his hour with Ford.

Kissinger, with his reputation for tardiness, might skip a conference or keep an ambassador waiting. He was always on time for those oval office meetings.

In Nixon's day, then White House Chief of Staff H R. "Bob" Haldeman managed to dominate all presidential aides but Kissinger. He tried and he failed. Kissinger saw Nixon without going through Haldeman.

Under Ford, Kissinger kept his visiting rights Donald Rumsfeld, White House chief of staff until picked Monday to become defense secretary, and his men grew irked. They claimed Kissinger refused to funnel his work through the White House papermill as did all other aides. They said he was no team player.

Kissinger loved that. He proclaimed he was no team player. Kissinger worked on the principle that his business was strictly with the President and not with the White House staffers

Henceforth, White House officials say, plans are being drawn up that will give Kissinger — barring emergencies — chiefly one meeting a week with the President. No more the one-a day

Further, the officials say, Kissinger will not be meeting alone with Ford He will share the sessions with Rumsfeld and George Bush, named by Ford as the new director of the CIA.

Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia declared that upgrading of a Kissinger deputy, Lt. Gen Brent Scowcroft, was "cosmetic."

The theme was echoed by other Democrats in the Congress "There's no doubt in my mind that the real winner over the weekend was Secretary Kissinger," Byrd said Monday He said he deplored the change at the Defense Department because Schlessnger was "the one person who articulated the best the dangers of overemphasis of detente with the Soviet Union"

Bentsen said he will redouble his effort to separate the running the White House-based National Security Council and the job of Secretary of State

Bentsen said Kissinger prevailed in recent weeks in cabinet debate with the Departments of Agriculture, Defense and Treasury. "The man is obviously dominating the entire cabinet and I think there's too much concentration of power here."

Otis G Pike, the New York Democrat who chairs a House committee studying the CIA, actually appeared to defend Colby Monday when he declared, "The CIA has not done anything that the President of the United States did not tell it to do"

'Rock Doc' Pleads Guilty To Sex Attack on Patient

POUGHKEEPSIE

Dr. William Abruzzi, the "Rock Doc" of the 1969 Woodstock Music Festival, entered a guilty plea in Dutchess County Court Monday to first-degree sexual abuse in connection with a 1974 incident at his office in Wappingers Falls.

A resident of New Paltz, Abruzzi admitted that he had sexually attacked a 27-year-old patient as she lay helpless under the influence of an anesthetic.

According to Dutchess County District Attorney Albert M. Rosenblatt, Abruzzi told the court that he had turned the anesthetic gas up to maximum in his Wappingrs Falls office in order to "render his patient incapable of consenting."

A general practicioner, Abruzzi was once the official campus physician for the State University at New Paltz. He gained fame during the Woodstock Festival at Bethel in Sullivan County when he was credited with preventing many "bad trips". He was admired by teenagers for relating to their drug problems.

Dutchess County Judge Raymond F. Aldrich Jr. set sentencing for Abruzzi for Dec. 3. He continued the defendant in $10,000 bail.

Rosenbaltt said he would recommend that the bearded doctor be given a stiff prison term. By pleading guilty, Abruzzi faces up to seven years in jail. The guilty plea to a felony also mandates the automatic revocation of his license to practice medicine in New York State.

Abruzzi is married and the father of two daughters When court was adjourned, the doctor left with his wife. He was relatively calm during the one-hour court session.

Tremors Reported

BLUE MOUNTAIN LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) — A pair of minor earthquakes shook the central Adirondack Mountains Monday afternoon with a measurement of between 4 and 4.5 on the 10-point Richter Scale.

Although several buildings were shaken, no severe damage was reported.

The epicenter of the main shock, shortly after 4 p.m., was just north of Indian Lake, in Hamilton County, according to scientists at Columbia University's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observtory, in Palisades, in Rockland County. The area which felt most of the shake spread from Old Forge east to Indian Lake and north to Long Lake. However, there were some minor rumblings felt as far away as Fort Drum, near Watertown.

State police said a house was also reported shaken in the village of Grant about 40 miles south of Old Forge.

The observatory maintains 20 reporting stations in the state and began to gather its information shortly after the first shock. A rapid aftershock was measured at 2.5 on the scale. The facility has sent researchers into the area with portable earthquate-measuring equipment to measure any further aftershocks.

'Deadly Combo'

POMONA, N.Y. (UPI) — The number of young people in Rockland County combining tranquilizers with alcohol is on the rise, according to the clinical director of the new Alcohol Abuse Services program.

It was reportedly a combination of the two that put Karen Ann Quinlan in a coma for the last six months leading to the celebrated trial on her parent's request that she be disconnected from a respirator and allowed to "die with dignity."

"When alcohol is taken in conjunction with valium or sleeping pills, it may be very dangerous," Dr. Steven M. Ratnow said. He said the drugs are all depressants.

"The whole body mechanism slows down until the brain cell may begin to die from lack of oxygen," he said.

Three or four persons per week have entered the Rockland County Community Health Center in the past eight months of the new alcohol program, Ratnow said. Most of them are brought in before they reach a serious medical condition.

"People who are addicts to alcohol or pills will reach a point in which the people around them can't tolerate them any more," he said.

Ratnov gave two explanations for the increase in the use of the two substances.

One, he said, is that, with decreasing use of hard drugs, young people have turned to increased use of minor tranquilizers. The other is that physicians have also written more prescriptions for tranquilizers, making them easily accessible in the home.

Officials at the Accept Program of Columbus Hospital and the Smithers Alcoholism Treatment Center, both in New York City, said they also have observed an increased proportion of drinkers taking pills, although they did not have statistics.

Asparagus Jump Fails

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Daredevil Evel Knievel won't have to worry about competition from stuntman Penn Jillette, also known as "Asparagus Penn," whose attempt to jump five Volkswagens on a rocket-powered unicycle Monday ended in a fizzle.

A hostile crowd of about 2,000 booed heartily as "Asparagus," who was supposed to rocket a distance of 30 feet over the cars, cycled up a starting ramp at Princeton University and promptly fell off his bike.

Smartly attired in a helmet, a black leather jacket and fire engine-red sneakers, Jillette remounted his cycle and raced across the car tops only to have his special "Aspareget" unicycle explode beneath him in a burst of red sparks.

Whisked from the scene by the campus emergency squad, Jillette, who was reported in good condition at a hospital, barely escaped injury from spectators who mobbed the unsuccessful cyclist amid squirting fire extinguishers.

The jump, slightly less spectacular than Knievel's equally ill-fated leap across the Snake River canyon, was part of a publicity promotion for the Asparagus Valley Cultural Society Theater Group.

Bangladesh Power Coup

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Senior army commanders have seized power in Bangladesh, reducing President Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed to a figurehead role and arresting six of his top military aides, diplomats said today.

The arrested officers, all majors in their 20s and 30s, were the men who masterminded a coup d'etat August 15 that killed President Mujibur Rahman, a hero of Bangladesh's war of independence, the diplomats said.

Bangladesh authorities closed Dacca airport and cut off communications between the capital and the outside world after Monday's revolt by army commanders.

Diplomatic sources in New Delhi said Bangladesh army troops patrolled the streets and all but government or diplomatic cars were forbidden to travel in the city.

Japanese embassy sources in New Delhi said there was some shooting during the power grab, but British diplomats said the takeover was bloodless.

"The president is now a figurehead," a British embassy source said. "He does not have the same authority, although who has succeeded him is unclear. But he owed his authority to those who put him in power, and today they are in jail."

The source said the six jailed officers had been living in the 55-year-old president's official residence.

Diplomats said the leader of the takeover was Brig. Gen. Khaled Musharraf, chief of the army general staff and the third man in the army hierarchy.

Bangladesh sources said Musharraf had organized senior commanders angered over being ordered about by the six junior officers that put Ahmed in power. Ahmed was commerce minister before becoming president.

A U.S. embassy spokesman put the conflict this way:

"The old army establishment doesn't like the young officers running the country. They're trying to sort out the army."

Radio Dacca, which remained silent throughout most of Monday, came back on the air at night and this morning but made no mention of the power shift.

Bangladesh — an impoverished land with 77 million inhabitants crowded into a nation the size of Wisconsin — broke away from Pakistan during the 1971 Indo-Pakistani War.

President Picks 'A New Team'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has decided that two former congressmen, an Air Force general and Henry Kissinger will make a better national security team than the old one — an expert on nuclear war, a spy, and Kissinger.

"These are my guys and the ones that I wanted," said the President, emphasizing that the major rearrangement in his cabinet and top level advisers were his personal selections and that the administration would keep seeking detente with the Soviet Union.

At a Monday news conference, Ford introduced the team: Kissinger, still secretary of state; his White House chief of staff, Donald Rumsfeld, becoming secretary of defense; his ambassador to China, George Bush, heading up the Central Intelligence Agency, and Kissinger's old White House deputy, Air Force Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, becoming presidential assistant for national security affairs.

Ford emphasized the ones he hired instead of the ones he fired. James R. Schlesinger is out as secretary of defense and Director William E. Colby will leave the CIA. The usual formality of a resignation was not mentioned.

The President declined to expand on another of Monday's startling announcements, that Nelson A. Rockefeller did not wish to be his 1976 running mate. In a letter, Rockefeller told Ford he did not want to complicate the President's political decisions as the campaign drew closer. Many Republicans said Rockefeller's departure would help Ford with the conservative wing of the GOP.

Ford hinted that Bush and Rumsfeld might come under consideration as his running mate.

Almost as an aside, Ford announced another change: that Elliot L. Richardson, the Boston brahmin who left the Nixon adminstration in the last big shake-up, the "Saturday Night Massacre" of 1973, would become secretary of commerce, replacing Rogers C.B. Morton, who, sources said, would assume "a major role" in Ford's campaign.

Richard Cheney, Rumsfeld's assistant, will run the White House staff.

The President said: "Secretary Kissinger will have the dominant role in the formation of our foreign policy."

That statement may resolve uncertainty over Kissinger's efforts to reduce tension between the superpowers, to get an agreement to stop the nuclear arms race. Schlesinger and other Pentagon officials have said that despite detente, the United States must strengthen its national security and increase arms spending.

But, Ford told the reporters, recent acrimony between State and Defense was not a factor.

"Are you saying and intending to be understood," asked one, "that neither personal nor policy differences between Dr. Kissinger and Mr. Schlesinger contributed to this change?"

"That is corect," replied Ford.

"It seems to me that you have not really answered the question," another asked. "What did Secretary Schlesinger do wrong that you didn't like?"

"I have affirmatively answered the question by saying that I wanted my own team, and I am keeping Secretary Kissinger because I think he has done an outstanding job in the field of foreign policy," said the President.

"I wanted a change in the Defense Department because I wanted, in that case, a person that I have known and worked with intimately for a long period of time, a person who is experienced in the field of foreign policy and who has served in the Department of Defense as a naval aviator."

Rumsfeld has served in the House, headed Richard Nixon's Office of Economic Opportunity and Cost of Living Council and served as ambassador to NATO as well as his White House post. Schlesinger, a Harvard Ph.D., taught at the University of Virginia, worked on nuclear war for the RAND Corp , and headed the Atomic Energy Commission and CIA for Nixon.

Rocky's Move Could Hurt Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans, not including President Ford, are saying Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's decision to drop out of the contest for nomination next year will help Ford beat Ronald Reagan next year.

Some of Rockefeller's partisans worried aloud about the effect on GOP chances in the presidential election a year from now if Ford goes to the party's right wing for a 1976 running mate.

But the hard-headed political consensus was that Reagan, the former California governor expected to challenge the President for the nomination, had taken a decided setback.

Ford declined to make any political value judgment about the Rockefeller decision, but made it clear during his news conference that he had neither encouraged the vice president to pull out nor pleaded with him to change his mind.

"The vice president came to me and said his letter represented his decision. And I accepted it," Ford said.

Nor would Ford concede he had any concern about Reagan or anyone else. "I'm not worried about any competitor, Democratic or Republican."

But others in the political trade said Ford did have problems with the former New York governor and party liberal as his most likely 1976 running mate and that the Vice President had helped ease them by bowing out.

Reagan himself, declaring he was "astounded" by the action, conceded it would make the launching of a conservative challenge to Ford more difficult. Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, a staunch congressional conservative, amplified that by saying, "This will hurt Reagan's chances because part of Reagan's appeal was the possibility that Rockefeller would be on the ticket."

Paul Haerle, California Republican chairman, said the action "strengthens the President's position immensely." Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., said he saw the Rockefeller decision as the elimination of "a source of irritation to one element of the Republican party."

John Connally, the former Texas governor and Treasury secretary who has been viewed as a possible conservative challenger himself, said: "I think it'll strengthen the hand of the President in the days and months ahead as he tries to secure his own position within the party."

Howard "Bo" Callaway, chairman of Ford's campaign committee who caused a political sensation last summer when he reported that Rockefeller was regarded as a "drag" on Ford by Southern Republicans attracted to Reagan, took a more delicate stance. "As a practical political matter, this will stimulate interest in the President's campaign and in the Republican National Convention next August," Callaway said

Not all Republicans put an optimistic face on the development. Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y , saw it as part of a series of events which were "identifying the President with the right wing of the Republican Party and this I consider most unfortunate for him as a candidate and as president of this country."

NYC Not the Problem, but

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford says Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller's decision to go his separate way in 1977 has nothing to do with their "minimal" differences over policy toward an insolvent New York City.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., told reporters differences between the President and the former New York governor may have been the catalyst in Rockefeller's decision to move on after 1977.

If that's so, Javits said, Rockefeller's abrupt decision could cause Ford to rethink his opposition to federal aid to the big city. "Maybe he needs a shaking," Javits said of Ford.

Ford says he's certain default by New York City — considered by city officials to be a sure thing without federal aid — would not have serious national economic consequences.

He told a news conference Monday night his differences with Rockefeller centered on the impact of default. Rockefeller feared the consequences, a view shared by his banker brother, David, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank

Concern about default's fallout also was a factor in the 23-16 vote Monday by which the House Banking Committee approved a bill to provide up to $7 billion in federally guaranteed loans to avert a default — or help New York recover if default occurs. The bill is to come up in the House next week.

Ford, in a television interview taped Sunday and broadcast Monday, reaffirmed his stand, even if it threatens to cost him New York's electoral votes in 1976.

"I think we have to ... look beyond any political consequences," he said.

Ford to Nominate Richardson For Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elliot Richardson, who quit Richard Nixon's cabinet on a point of honor in the "Saturday Night Massacre," will become secretary of commerce in President Ford's administration shake-up.

Ford told a news conference Monday he will nominate Richardson, 55, now U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, to replace Rogers C.B. Morton, who Ford said would like to "lessen his pace" in public life.

Richardson has held more high level jobs in Washington than almost anyone in recent memory. If confirmed for the post he is scheduled to assume early next year, the Harvardeducated lawyer and former Massachusetts lieutenant governor will have served in four Cabinet positions, more than anyone else in history

"I am honored to be asked by the President to serve as secretary of commerce during a period when economic concerns, both domestically and internationally, are of such critical importance," he said in London today.

"I must say, however, that I feel sharp regret at leaving this post which I have found so compatible and so rewarding I look forward to the opportunity to remain here for a time to be useful I hope to this country and to mine."

Richardson was assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the Eisenhower administration. Under Nixon he was undersecretary of state, secretary of HEW, secretary of defense and attorney general.

In late 1972, he was invited to make the commencement address at a university but in the midst of the Watergate crisis had to cancel. He noted at the time that the secretary of HEW was invited, the defense secretary accepted and the attorney general declined.

Patty Hearing Is Underway

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The question of Patricia Hearst's mental competence was the subject of a federal hearing today to determine whether she should stand trial or was so bent by her 19-month Symbionese Liberation Army odyssey that she needs psychiatric help.

The hearing was set before U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, who said last week his preliminary opinion was that Miss Hearst was competent to stand trial.

F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst's attorney, said the defendant planned to attend the hearing but would not testify.

"Oh, God forbid, no," Bailey said Monday when asked whether he would put his client on the stand.

Miss Hearst, 21, is being held without bail on federal charges of participating in a San Francisco bank robbery on April 15, 1974, and using an automatic weapon during the holdup. She also faces numerous state charges in Los Angeles County.

If Miss Hearst is declared competent, Bailey said he was prepared to ask that bail be set for her and that she be placed in a private psychiatric facility for pretrial care.

Three court-appointed psychiatrists examined Miss Hearst in the San Mateo County Jail in nearby Redwood City. All the reports were given to the judge as well as the defense lawyers and prosecutors.

Miss Hearst's lawyers said her experiences with the SLA so shook her mental processes that she was near the brink of a mental collapse. They said they wanted her treated at once in a private mental facility.

Under the law, a mentally incompetent person cannot be brought to trial. The defendant is usually sent to a psychiatric facility. If —at the end of a year in the facility — the defendant is still incompetent, the charges are dropped and the person is committed indefinitely to a state hospital.

Automobile Industry Is Testing the Damages of Smog Control

MILFORD, Mich. (UPI) — In the gently rolling hills 50 miles northwest of Detroit, a California-style freeway has been built to learn how much sulfuric acid is being pumped out of the catalytic smogcontrol systems found on most new cars.

Each day, 350 cars travel the three-mile stretch of test road at the General Motors Proving Ground. All are equipped with the muffler-like device that some researchers warn may create as much of a hazard as it was designed to correct.

The first catalytic converters were installed on a large majority of the 1975-model cars to meet government clean air standards. An even greater number of 1976 models will be equipped with the system.

By the mid-'80s, when most cars would have the catalytic mufflers, researchers claim a freeway full of cars would produce dangerous quantities of sulfates which combine with moisture in the exhaust or air to form sulfuric acid mists.

The "sulfuric acid" question is just one of several problems the catalytic converter has had to face since its introduction as a clean air system. There have been reports of fires caused by overheating converters and a number of owners have claimed better fuel economy by "poisoning" the systems with leaded gasoline.

The bumper-to-bumper traffic on the test "freeway" will determine just what concentrations of sulfates are pouring out of the exhaust pipes of the new cars. It's an unusual project because it's a cooperative effort of the four U.S. auto companies and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The tests are only half completed, but both GM and the EPA agree there is no danger now from the converters. GM cars alone have logged more than 30 billion miles with the muffler-like devices.

"The level of sulfate emissions from many cars without catalysts approaches the level from cars with catalysts," said Ernest S. Starkman, GM's environmental vice president. "It was thought before these studies were begun that noncatalyst systems emitted no sulfates, but we know now that is not the case."

The only cars now equipped with converters that might pose any problem are those sold in California because they are equipped with an air pump to meet that state's stricter air quality standards.

But, since the rest of the nation will reach California's standards in the next two years, the sulfate problem could grow nationwide. Fewer than six million of the nation's 100 million cars are equipped with catalytic mufflers.

"None of the presently available information shows any potential danger to persons from individual catalyste-equipped cars, nor to their occupants," Starkman says. "The quantity of sulfur compounds emitted by any single car is extremely small — detectable only by highly sophisticated instrumentation.

"We all seem to agree that it is only after several years, and then only under the very worst possible combination of conditions, that any adverse health affects might catch up to the health benefits."

Most researchers agree that the "adverse health effects" could cause problems for elderly persons or those with respiratory problems who live near some of the heavily congested freeways in the nation's urban areas. They just don't know yet how large the sulfuric acid mists might become.

The catalytic converter uses platinum and palladium to aid in the change of exhaust hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide into harmless carbon dioxide and water. At least that was the intention when GM and other automakers began working on the device in the early '70s.

In the presence of a great deal of oxygen and heat — two prime ingredients to make the converters work — sulfur in gasoline is converted into sulfuric acid mists or sulfates.

Eric O. Stork, a deputy assistant administrator of the EPA, says the greatest problem posed by the catalytic converter "is that we really don't know if there is a problem."

"There's absolutely no reason to even consider taking off the converters because those in the 49 states pose no more hazard than a non-catalyst car," Stork says. "One solution to the problem, if we find from these tests that there is a problem, would be to remove sulfur from the gasoline — a $3 billion to $4 billion undertaking."

GM, the prime developer of the catalytic converter, is sensitive about the clean air device because of the sulfuric acid mist and overheating questions.

Howard Kehrl, a GM executive vice president, admits the converters have been controversial but said that known converter problems of all kinds represented only a minute fraction of 1 per cent of GM's converter car production.

"The problems are no greater than the warranty rate for mufflers and regular exhaust system components," Kehrl says. "It would be unfortunate if untrue and unreasonable criticism would succeed in undermining the public's confidence in the catalytic converter which is a significant step forward in emission control technology."

But another GM executive ut the news conference in mid-October to discuss the testing project wryly admitted: "Once these stories of fires, rotten egg smells and sulfuric acid mists begin circulating, they're hard to put down."

'A Hot Time!. . . '

By UPI

Chili fans can argue about whether the true world championship cookoff for the fiery dish was held in Texas or California, but the winners agree on one thing — they won't reveal their secret recipes.

Suzie Watson, a self-proclaimed "libber" from Houston, won the Texas Version of the crown this weekend while Joe Defrates of Illinois took the California contest.

"You cook it in a black iron kettle," was all Ms. Watson would reveal about her winning entry.

"It's just like lightning," grinned DeFrates, refusing to say anything more about his concoction.

The real world champion depends on which title you hold most sacred, "The International Chili Society" crown given in Rosamond, Calif., for the first time this year, or the "Wick Fowler Memorial World Championship" title awarded in the dusty Texas ghosttown of Terlingua.

Texas chili aficionados claim the California event is only a "rump convention." They renamed their contest after Fowler, a former chili champ who died a few years ago.

Ms. Watson outcooked 27 opponents to win the Texas version of the title and carry off the coveted chili pepper trophy.

She was the second woman in a row to win the maledominated contest. Last year Allegani Jani Schoffield took the title with her patented "Hot Pants Chili."

"Put me down as a libber," said Ms. Watson, who earlier this year won the Fifth First Annual Amelia Earhart Ladies Chili Bust at Luckenbach, Tex. "The only people who say men are the best cooks for chili are men."

The Odessa White Buffalo Salvation Army Saloon won the martini contest with a concoction of tequila, vermouth, hot sauce and two barbecued olives.

Banks Should Cooperate

Banks and lending institutions continually emphasize their willingness to help people and worthwhile community projects by doing their thing — lending money.

It troubles The Freeman to learn that those institutions in the Kingston area are proposing such a stiff lending figure to Granada Builders that the planned senior citizen complex on the former St. Anne's property might have to be scrapped.

According to Martin Aaron, secretary of the corporation, the "frills" demanded by the banks are such that his firm cannot afford to obtain a loan at 9.5 per cent interest and still manage to keep its head above water each month. Granada needs $500,000 to complete the project and lacks only the cooperation of the city's banks.

Terms given Granada by the banks include two percentage points up front (a $36,000 payment before the mortgage was granted), no prepayment options and bank rights to renegotiate the interest, upward.

Since making initial overtures at the Heritage Savings Bank and then seeing what he thought was a deal fall through, Aaron has been in contact with Rondout Savings and Kingston Trust.

He is hopeful these two institutions will look upon the complex as a civic venture and he wants local banking to be involved.

It would not only be a shame but would tarnish the images of local institutions if Aaron and his Granada builders were to obtain money from a city such as Albany to build a senior citizens housing project in Kingston.

The Freeman urges members of the Kingston Financial Council to put their heads together and use their hearts to give some assistance to a deserving project.

Violence in Sports

Directly following the baseball World Series, in which sportsmanship and fair play were exemplified, there came a pair of examples of the continuing role of violence — verbal and physical — in amateur and professional sports.

At the recently concluded Pan American games in Mexico City, athletes from the Unied States were hooted and jeered, kicked and slugged, insulted and spat upon. The abuse, largely coming from Mexican fans and in some cases from Cuban athletes, appeared to have its cause in a strong anti-American sentiment.

Our water polo players were assaulted by the Cubans, a young race walker from Missouri was held back by rowdy Mexican students, thereby preventing his possible victory, and our premiere diver, Jennifer Chandler, was booed and jeered as she attempted final dives.

There is no justification for this kind of treatment, no matter how small a minority of fans and athletes took part. The United States should receive an immediate apology from Mexican officials and an assurane that preventative measures will be enforced in the future.

On the professional side, veteran Bobby Hull staged a one-day walkout to protest the violence in hockey. The World Hockey League star was outraged at the "brutality" in a recent game in which a player was struck and sustained a serious eye injury.

It's time for professional hockey officials to stop condoning violence as a part of the game and begin considering the brutalizing effects it continues to have on players and fans alike.

Dossiers on Important Blacks

By JACK ANDERSON with Less Whitten

WASHINGTON—At the request of the late Dr. Martin Luther King's associates, we investigated the smear charges that the FBI had spread against him. We reported in an earlier column that the stories were grossly inaccurate.

The same associates complained that Dr. King's successor, Rev. Ralph Abernathy, was also kept under intensive FBI surveillance. From secret FBI files, we have confirmed that the G-men have a record of the most intimate details of his life.

They know everything about him from his finances to his health, including the medications he takes every morning and evening. His FBI file contains a psychological profile, copies of his hotel bills, transcripts of his speeches and even a account of his traffic violations.

One FBI memo, stamped "Confidential," reveals the details of a squabble Abernathy had on Feb. 5, 1970, with his subordinates. Afterward, the memo notes, Abernathy discussed the flare-up with his wife. Their conversation is outlined in detail.

We showed the file to Dr. Abernathy, who readily recalled the conversation with his wife. It had occurred, he said, in the privacy of his bedroom."They had to be bugging me," Abernathy told our associate, Joe Spear.

At the FBI, a spokesman categorically denied that agents had ever used electronic surveillance against Abernathy. Several references, including other conversations between Abernathy and his wife, are attributed in the file to "confidential sources who have furnished reliable information in the past."

It is clear from the file that FBI agents visited the U.S. Passport Office to get his travel schedule and Credit Bureau offices to find out about his finances.

Under the late J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI was almost paranoiac about black leaders. We have had access to other secret dossiers, indexed under "Racial Matters," on such prominent black leaders as the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Roy Wilkens, Bayard Rustin, Floyd McKissick, Roy Innis and Martin Luther King's widow, Coretta.

Dossiers were also kept on black artists, entertainers and sports figures, ranging from heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and actor Harry Belafonte to comedian Dick Gregory and singer Eartha Kitt.

This FBI concentration upon prominent blacks has alarmed black Congressmen who asked us to testify on Capitol Hill. We brought the evidence, complete with names and details.

My testimony concluded: "To the FBI, apparently, anyone with a dark skin who dares to open his mouth is viewed as subversive. I have seen dozens of dossiers on black leaders whose only crime is voicing the tribulations of their people; who have done nothing more than organize their ranks; who are guilty only of peacefully petitioning their government in redress of grievances, as there Constitution says they have an inalienable right to do."

Footnote: In fairness, it should be added that the present FBI director, Clarence Kelley, has abandoned his predecessor's bias against blacks and has adopted a balanced racial policy.

DEFENSE OF JACKIE: For most Americans, the famous photograph of Jacqueline Kennedy crawling across the back of her assassinated husband's limousine in Dallas is one of the most poignant memories of the 1960s.

This left the impression that she panicked at the shots and tried to save herself by leaving her dying husband.

But now, the nation's most indefatigable private investigator of the assassination, Harold Weisberg of Frederick, Md., has discovered that certain material was deleted from Jackie's testimony on June 5, 1964.

The deleted testimony indicates that she was trying to aid her husband, not save herself. The details were so grisly that they were deleted as a matter of taste. We have decided not to reprint this portion, except to report that the First Lady apparently was trying to help keep her husband's head intact, not trying to escape from the limousine.

The full details will be published in a 650-page book called "Post Mortem." Weisberg concludes, as he has in past books, that the assassination was the result of a conspiracy. Our own investigation shows that many questions remain to be answered. But we have not seen enough evidence to contradict the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin, acted alone.

FOR THE BIRDS: The Society for Animal Rights is so infuriated over the killing of some 4.5 million blackbirds in Kentucky, Tennessee and Illinois, plus the planned destruction of 22 million more, that they are urging a nationwide boycott of Union Carbide products.

Why Union Carbide? Although various government agencies order the killing, Union Carbide? Although various government agencies order the killing, Union Carbide makes the detergent, Tergitol, which loosens the protective oil on bird's wings so they freeze to death.

President Ford vs. New York?

By William F. Buckley

Concerning Mr. Ford's speech and the reaction to it, a few observations:

1. Although it is true, as it has been observed, that even paranoids have real enemies, the paranoid reaction by prominent New York City spokesmen to Mr. Ford's refusal, as he put it, to bail out New York City, is surrealistic. The New York Daily News headline the next morning was: "FORD TO CITY: DROP DEAD."' The New York Times, as ever preferring orotundity to the vernacular, wailed the identical wail in its editorial columns at exorbitant length. And James Reston, looking down upon us from his perch in the Milky Way, talked about the end of the American empire, done in by regional factionalism.

Mr. Ford is not, in my judgment, picking on New York. If I contract chicken pox, the doctor who quarantines me is not picking on me. Much of social history is written around dramas focusing on a single entity. The labor unions vs. the Pullman Company. Roosevelt vs. the banks. Harry Truman vs. the steel companies. Dwight Eisenhower vs. Little Rock, Arkansas. It is only in this sense that you can speak about "Ford vs. New York City." It is of course Ford's contention that the case is more properly labeled: "The United States vs. New York City. Because, he says quite correctly, the precedent New York City is demanding for itself is another draught of self-delusion which, taken in great doses, would drown the country, incidentally putting an end to Mr. Reston's empire.

2. Although the indignation against Mr. Ford has been excessive, there has not been anything like the clarifying indignation against the principal players who got us into this mess. New York Magazine features this week a brilliantly researched expose of the 20 fateful steps that led New York into its current plight. It has been fiscal chicanery on a truly grand scale. It reminds one of the mordant cliche that if you kill one man you are a murderer, but if you kill five million, you are a national military hero. Little old Whatshisname Segretti is sent off to jail by Honest John for dirty tricks in the New Hampshire primary involving a couple of phony letters to the editor. The dirty tricks played on innocent purchasers of New York City municipal bonds by a corporation of political purchasers of whom it must in honesty be conceded that Nelson Rockefeller served as chairman of the board, are free, out in the open spaces, some of them in high political office, and all of them moralizing against Ford's alliance with reality.

John Lindsay, who did more than any man to undermine the value of New York's bonds, writes for Newsweek Magazine that after all, when he left office, City bonds were getting a higher rating from Standard and Poor's than when he took office. This is on the nature of looking up from the wreckage of a hurricane and pointing triumphantly to the weather report that promised clear and sunny weather.

The point is not that Lindsay left the city with high-rated bonds, but that the people who gave out the ratings were either bamboozled, or fellow-conspirators. "The thing that makes me mad," said Senator Packwood at the Senate committee meeting on Thursday, "is that those guys sat here and lied to us — Carey and Goldin and Beame." The Senator's incumbent outrage is over the testimony of these New Yorkers that there is literally no other way to save New York than by federal intervention; when now it transpires that the huge pension funds of city employees are in fact adequate to accomplish the refinancing, if some of the people who helped lead New York astray will now help guide it back to health.

But the big lies, as New York's expose reveals, were told over a period of a decade or more during which funds were dedployed in the ledgers by the juggling of terminology so as to permit a scale of living compatible with the resources of the city.

3. It needs only to be added that it is not in the least disreputable if Mr. Ford decides to make the case of New York City a national battleground. Certainly he has picked on someone his own size — something very different from, say, Kennedy vs. the steel companies. Picking on the New York Times and the New York Daily News and CBS, ABC, AP, UPI, David Rockefeller, Albert Shanker, and Harriet Van Horne, takes a lot of kidney. And the issue is a real one. The real world vs. the politicans' world.

Select Your Own Poison

WASHINGTON — The public has now been told that you may catch a case of cancer if you cook your bacon too crisp. Of course, if you don't cook it enough you may catch a case of trichinosis or botulism or what you have. All that remains is for the breakfast-makers of America to master the fine line of cookery between diseases, and then eat hearty.

The announcement in the bacon do nothing for the bacon buyer and bacon eater. These potential poisons are put into the food solely for merchandising and marketing reasons.

The bacon is colored to make the lean parts look red, though why the natural hues of pig meat are commercially unacceptable surpasses easy understanding. The chemical preservatives are essential to national distribution and market domination by large industrial food corporations. If putting poison in the food to preserve it were not allowed, small local butchers, bakers and brewers would be able to compete with the food fabricators.

Human Life Comes Second

But that's wishful thinking. After years of struggle, disturbing revelations and the heaping up of evidence that day by day we are being killed off at work, at the dining room table and at play by the air we breathe, the decision of the society is that the economic consequences of the prolongation of human life can't be justified on the bottom line, as they say around the White House.

Not even a substance like tobacco, which nobody outside the industry — including the people who use it — has a good word for, has elicted a serious and sufficient public health program. True, pipe and cigar smoking is down, but cigarettes, the major hazard, are not. The best that can be said is that per capita consumption of coffin nails isn't rising, which means that Americans over the age of 18 will average only 4,148 ciggies apiece this year.

That was not supposed to happen when, back in 1970, cigarette commercials were tossed off the air. The people who pushed through that misconceived idea failed to realize that what they were effectively doing was not suppressing pro-cigarette propanganda but anti-cigarette advertising.

When the cigarette commercials got the gate so did the highly effective, equal time anti-commercials. Today the anti-commercial is a seldom-seen public service spot while the cigarette people have gone happily on their way selling death through the media.

Last year the 20 major brands spent almost a quarter of a billion dollars peddling cancer sticks. They actually spent more than they did when they were allowed on TV, and the clever friends have even learned how to capitalize on smoker's health worries to sell 'em more of the stuff that makes 'em sick. The acknowledged leader in this field of dubious competence is R.J. Reynolds' Vantage brand, which first brought us advertising copy with headlines like: "I smoke. And I'm not going to apologize for it," and, "How many times have you decided to give up smoking?" In the annals of salesmenship, this far outdistances selling ice boxes to Eskimos.

Since the smoke-our-cigggies-they-kill-you-slower approach has almost doubled Vantage's sales (from 5.2 to 9.59 billion a year), other brands are paying Vantage the compliment of imitation, but creative innovation in the emphysema industry doesn't stop there.

The same R.J. Reynolds Company has also demonstrated that, in the words of "Advertising Age" (Oct. 20), "the public can be reached with an innovative cigarette, using non-broadcast media." This improvement in the quality of life is a long, 120 millimeter, brown smoke marketed under the new brand name of More. "Advertising Age" asked an R.J. Reynolds' executive why a brown cigarette and why so long. The man's answer is an indication of how smart and thoughtful these devils can be. Remarking that a "'slim, long elegant-looking cigarette' stood a chance of capitalizing on the physical self-enhancement trend, the gentleman said, 'When we looked at brown vs. white, it was our judgment that consumers would perceive a white 120 as just something longer than what they were getting now, where as once More was picked up and handled it was perceived as something unique in appearances and feel.'"

Antis Fail to Adjust

But while the cigarette industry was making a perfectly splendid transition from broadcasting back to print ($80 million in newspapers and $114 million in magazines last year), the anti-forces were failing to make a successful adjustment to new conditions. The Federal Trade Commission is bogged down with such projects as trying to make the cigarette advertisers enlarge the health hazard signs on the billboards. Even if they are successful, will it do any good?

A new attack is necessary. To begin with we might let the cigarette makers back on TV, and then once we've got them back on the air, let's fight it out with them for their lives and health of their customers.

To pay for a new generation of anti-smoking ads, we'll need a new tax. It's not fair to the broadcasters to force them to give away their revenue time. The tax should be levied only on cigarettes. Why should non-smokers pay? And it should equal twice the total advertising budget of the cigarette industry, so that everytime they place an ad anywhere they know they will also be paying for two ads refuting them. A nation that taxes its people to pay for the clownish election campaigns of its politicians should have no objection to taxing people to convince them not to commit suicide.

Folks may go on smoking anyhow. The profit motive alone doesn't explain self-destruction by cigarette. The Russians have gone into partnership with Philip Morris, Inc., to market Apollo Soyuz commemorative butts, and that's a socialist country where there are no profits to make. So nazdorovya to you comrades!

GM Recalls Air Bag Cars For Defect

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp is recalling 1,300 air bag equipped cars because a defect might prevent the controversial safety device in the steering wheel from inflating in an accident

The GM recall involves 1,300 of the 1,700 1975-model Oldsmobiles, Cadillacs and Buicks equipped with the $325 option GM sold 7,500 air bag equipped cars in 1974—the first year the option was offered—but has sold none this year GM said this year was the last during which the air bags would be offered unless ordered to offer the equipment by the government

A spokesman said the recall was ordered because the module in the driver's air cushion may not have enough propellant to inflate the air bag in an accident The problem was discovered in the laboratory when a worker checking air bag systems noticed some did not weigh enough

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT

In 1776, we promised that America would be a place where individuals counted for what they are Not where they came from or what their ancestors did

We've passed a lot of laws against sex discrimination during the past few years But laws are for particular seasons. Constitutional amendments are our way of insuring that laws are not ignored or repealed because of immediate political needs CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS ARE FOR ALL SEASONS The NY State ERA lets us deliver on our 200-year-old promise

Either you believe that all people are created equal or you don't If you do

Bicentennial at Rondout Valley School

Special flag raising ceremonies were conducted at the Rondout Valley Middle school recently with Boys of Scout Troop 21, Accord acting as color guard. A 13-star flag, in honor of the American Revolution Bicentennial Year, will fly daily from the school's flagstaff during 1975-76 school year. Taking part in the event were (front) Robert Roosa, Parks Harrison and Adam Putnam; with the troop flag is Mathew Putnam. (Freeman photo)

Board Opposes N-Construction

KERHONKSON

The Board of Directors of Concerned Consumers of the Mid-Hudson Area (CCMHA) recently voted to oppose construction of nuclear generating plants, in particular the five proposed for the Lloyd-Esopus and Cementon sites in Ulster County.

"No form of energy is as dangerously pollutant or as socially costly as nuclear energy," said CCMHA in a press release. "The dangers are such that insurance companies refuse to insure homes and businesses against damage from that source and the federal government has passed a law which takes both the utilities and the government off the hook with regard to paying the full costs of damage incurred by major nuclear accidents. Even the full costs of handling and storing radioactive wastes is ignored. These limitations do not apply to any other forms of energy."

CCMHA noted other problems stemming from nuclear generating plants, including the release of radioactivity to the environment, cooling system failures which would release large amounts of radioactivity, problems of removing and transporting to reprocessing plants the highly dangerous radioactive wastes, and storing such wastes.

"Future generations for thousands of years will have to spend the time and money to see that the radioactivity never leaks out of the storage places," CCMHA said. "We have no right to impose such onerous burdens on the future."

CCMHA, active in the fight against high electric rates, pointed to "the interlocking relationships between the $60 billion nuclear industry, oil companies, utilities, and major banks and their tremendous influence in the government which has led the to the neglect of development of alternative sources of energy which do not provide the high rate of profit that comes from a high cost base such as nuclear plants."

Anti-Nuclear Rally Slated

NEW YORK

Citizen organizations opposed to nuclear power will stage a rally on Thursday, Nov. 13 outside the New York City offices of the Power Authority of the State of New York (PASNY).

A number of supporters from the Mid-Hudson Valley are expected to participate, including representatives of Mid-Hudson Nuclear Opponents, Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Citizens to Preserve the hudson Valley, Hudson Valley Citizens Watch on Nuclear Safety and the New York Federation for Safe Energy.

The purpose of the rally, said John Mavretich, chairman of Mid-Hudson Nuclear Opponents, is to "Signal the irreversible decision of countless New Yorkers to halt the social, economic and environmental ravages of nuclear power."

A number of organizations which have a broad national membership are also expected to participate in the demonstration. Speakers will include Congresswoman Bella Abzug (D-N.Y.) Assemblyman Daniel Haley, chairman of the New York State Legislative Commission on Energy Systems and Bronx Borough President Robert Abrams.

The date of the rally was selected to commemorate the first anniversary of the death of Karen Silkwood, who reportedly had possession of documents critical of the operations at a large plutonium factory. She was killed in an automobile accident while en route to see an investigative reporter for the NewYork Times; the documents were never recovered.

Mid-Hudson Nuclear Opponents has chartered a bus to carry members and supporters to and from the rally. Persons interested in reserving a seat on the bus should write to Mid-Hudson Nuclear Opponents, PO Box 857, Highland.

The rally will take place from 12 noon to 2 p.m. at Columbus Circle, 59th Street and 8th Avenue.

SPORTS TODAY

After Rams Rout Eagles

Axe for Mike?

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Los Angeles Ram Coach Chuck Knox goes right back to work today after a 42-3 rout of the Philadelphia Eagles on national television Monday night, but Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack is not so sure he can say the same thing.

"I wouldn't be surprised at anything," a dejected McCormack said when asked if he might face dismissal after the national embarrassment.

"It's in every coach's mind when you're going through adversity," said McCormack, whose Eagles are now 1-6.

Eagles General Manager Jim Murray said there would be no coaching changes now. "But there will be changes in the lineup," he warned.

Knox, who now has a commanding four game lead with a 6-1 record in the NFC West, said his team won't get today off and will work out at 4 p.m. in Los Angeles.

"Even though we have a big lead in our division, we will still have to work. We have to practice to win," Knox said after the Rams ran away with Monday night's game following the first quarter.

In the rout, Rams quarterback James Harris threw three touchdown passes, two of them to former Eagle speedster Harold Jackson and the Ram defense did the rest.

They scored on a 76-yard run with an interception by Isiah Robertson; a 20-yard run by linebacker Fred Dryer after recovering a fumble by Eagles quarterback Roman Gabriel and set up the Rams' first touchdown in the first quarter on an interception by free safety Bill Simpson.

Jackson said the Eagles did not respect his speed. That's what he told Harris in the huddle "and that's all there was to it."

He scored on a 58-yard fly pattern down the sidelines and later on a 30-yard toss into the end zone corner.

"We have no tricks," said Harris, who was 10-for-20 for 207 yards. "We played a solid game of football. If one play doesn't work, we use the other."

McCormack had a more blunt way of putting it.

"We had our butts kicked by a very good football team. They did everything they wanted. We couldn't seem to do anything against it."

Anthony Davis Opts for Canadian League

TORONTO (UPI) — Former All-American Anthony Davis, the World Football League's brightest star, has signed a five-year, $1 million contract with the Canadian Football League Toronto Argonauts.

The 23-year old running back, who broke all of O.J. Simpson's records at the University of Southern California, became a free agent when the WFL collapsed in financial ruin two weeks ago.

Davis said Monday he was considering offers from both the Argos and the New York Jets of the National Football League but decided his future was in the CFL. He signed with Toronto last Thursday.

"I was going back and forth with the Jets and the Argos and decided that my future here would be more beneficial to me," Davis said. He said the Argos lucrative offer was not the deciding issue.

"If I had to play in New York, I'd play in New York. I play here, I play here. The money's not the main thing. I just like football."

Davis said he would have played in the CFL playoffs had Toronto qualified by beating the Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday. The Argos lost 26-10 to finish last in the CFL east with a 5-10 record.

"But I'll be back next season," said Davis, serving notice on the league and superstar Johnny Rodgers of the Montreal Alouettes that the CFL and the former Nebraska University All-American better make room for "A.D."

While at USC, Davis had more than 100 yards rushing in 17 games, scored 52 touchdowns and scored more points than anyone in USC's illustrious football history. He broke all the records set by pro football's premier running back, O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills.

With the WFL's Southern California Sun, Davis led the league in almost every offensive department. He had over 1,200 yards rushing, 18 touchdowns rushing, two passing and 41 receptions for 567 yards, all in 12 games.

Bianchi Fired

AL BIANCHI

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires have fired Al Bianchi as their head coach, installing injured all-star guard Mack Calvin as interim head coach in his place.

"The owners and management of the club felt a change was necessary," General Manager Jack Ankerson said Monday night. "We will begin a search immediately for a successor."

Calvin took over coaching duties immediately.

The Squires, 1-6 so far this season, finished last year with a 15-69 record.

Bianchi had been head coach since the ABA Squires were formed in 1969. He put together a 185-235 record, including an Eastern Division Championship in the 1970-71 season.

He was previously head coach of the Washington Capitols, forerunner of the Squires, and served two years as head coach of the NBA Seattle Supersonics.

He has a 282-386 during his eight years of professional coaching.

Bianchi also played professional basketball with the Syracuse Nationals and the Philadelphia 76ers. His pro basketball playing and coaching career spans 18 consecutive years.

Fenway Facelift

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox can expect even greater defensive plays from outfielder Fred Lynn next season, after a thick padding is installed around Fenway Park's concrete wall.

Told Monday that plans called for a six-foot high pad to be attached from the left field foul pole to the right center field corner, the Red Sox' Rookie of the Year said, "I like it! It definitely will be safer now."

Lynn who bruised his tailbone against the wall while chasing a liner in thes World Series sixth game, added, "I'll go back and run into it all day."

The news of the Green Monster's softer touch also was welcomed by Red Sox left fielder Jim Rice, Lynn's autograph signing partner at the on-going International Auto Show.

"Maybe you'll see a lot of fantastic catches now; it's a good idea," said Rice. "The wall—the way it is now—is something you don't play with.

The padding, to be completed before the start of next season, had been suggested by Boston center fielder Dom DiMaggio more than 30 years ago.

The decision to install the two-inch thick pad was made last summer, long before Lynn lay helpless at the base of the 379-mark after just missing the fifth inning drive by Cincinnati's Ken Griffey.

Red Sox General Manager Dick O'Connell, who also announced an electronic scoreboard would be added above the center field bleachers, said the pad will begin 1½ feet from the base of the "Green Monster" and rise to 7½ feet all along the wall. The remainder of the 37-foot high concrete wall already is in the process of being resurfaced with a metal alloy that will replace the present green tin covering.

"I'm sure it will change the bounce of balls hit off the wall but it's for the players' protection," said O'Connell, who added that new drainage and sprinkler systems have been included in the 63-year-old park's facelift. Other improvements include new sod in certain areas and a glass enclosure around the pressbox behind home plate.

O'Connell said the scoreboard "will protrude over the last 10 rows and will be able to transmit pictures. There are no plans for instant replays but I'm told it has the capability of doing that too.

"But there'll be no fireworks or other craziness that scoreboards have in some other parks."

Top Three Pulling Away

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State, Oklahoma and Nebraska continued to outdistance the rest Tuesday, occupying the top three positions in the ratings of the UPI Board of College Football Coaches for the second consecutive week.

The Buckeyes, now 8-0, had considerable difficulty Saturday in beating Indiana, 24-14, after being rated a 45-point favorite, but the coaches still gave Ohio State 34 of a possible 42 first-place votes and 409 points.

Oklahoma and Nebraska, atop the Big Eight with perfect 8-0 records, each drew four No. 1 votes and engaged in a fairly close battle for the runnerup spot. The Sooners, 27-7 winners over then 15th-rated Oklahoma State, pulled 366 points, only 17 more than the Cornhuskers, who throttled Missouri, 30-7. Last week the margin between the two Midlands powers was 36 points.

Southern Cal had been engaging in a back-and-forth struggle with Nebraska for the third spot in the rankings. No longer. The Trojans were upset by California, 28-14, a day after USC's John McKay announced this season would be his last as a college coach, and the defending national champions dropped from fourth to ninth.

This upset allowed last week's fifth through ninth teams to each move up one notch. Texas A&M, idle this weekend after their scheduled game with Arkansas was moved back to Dec. 6 for national television, is now fourth at 7-0, followed by Alabama at 7-1. The Crimson Tide overcame Mississippi State 21-10 Saturday night and, like the top three schools, was named on every coach's ballot. The Aggies missed this distinction by one vote.

Michigan, 6-0-2, also had trouble getting past Minnesota, 28-21, for the Little Brown Jug to move into sixth. Texas, another power to experience difficulty as a big favorite, held on for a 30-22 victory over SMU and moved into seventh at 7-1. Penn State, now 8-1, squeezed past Maryland 15-13 to take over eighth.

Florida, a convincing 31-14 winner over Auburn, held fast to the last spot in the top 10 at 7-1, while bidding to tie for the SEC title with Alabama.

Aaron May Be Back For Another Season

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Home run slugger Hank Aaron indicated Monday night he may be back for another year as a player, but still wasn't sure whether it would be as a manager also.

"I haven't been offered the job yet," Aaron said during a brief interview on the National Football League Monday night national telecast.

Aaron was referring obviously to the vacant job as manager of the Milwaukee Brewers. The job opened when the Brewers fired Del Crandall on the last day of the 1975 season. Aaron has been rumored as a replacement.

Aaron, however, made it apparent he probably would be back as a player, but not as a manager, in answering two direct questions.

Asked about being a manager, Aaron gave the "haven't been offered" answer, but when pressed added he had said earlier he would not be a manager. Pressed further, Aaron said he had a contract for two years—one that includes 1976 - and intended to honor that contract.

Aaron, who broke Babe Ruth's career home run record with the Atlanta Braves, was traded to Milwaukee before the 1975 season and finished with the poorest statistics in his 21 year career, but still mighty credible for a 40-year old.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Scott Signs

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — For a guy who had just signed a new one year contract somewhere in the neighborhood of $150,000, Milwaukee Brewers first baseman George Scott was trying to keep the conversation realistic.

"There's been a lot of speculation in the last month about me being traded and I can't fault the Brewers for looking for a deal for me," Scott said Monday shortly after club officials announced he had signed his 1976 contract.

The terms weren't announced, but it was assumed Scott got a healthy raise over the estimated $135,000 he received for the 1975 season.

Scott's 1975 performance was his best ever. He tied Reggie Jackson for the American League home run title with 36, led the American League in runs batted in with 109, and was the club's pacesetter in runs, game-winning hits and slugging percentage.

But he said the fact he signed "still doesn't guarantee me that I'm going to be here."

Goals Surprise Lambert

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal forward Yvon Lambert scored both the tying and winning goals in the Canadiens' 3-2 win over the Buffalo Sabres Monday night, and no one was more surprised than Lambert.

The contest was the only National Hockey League game of the night.

Lambert scored the tying goal at 16:44 of the final period. "When I got that goal I knew how lucky I was and I certainly wasn't thinking about another one," he said.

"I had the puck in front of the Buffalo net and I was just trying to pass it when it hit Jerry Korab's stick and went in."

Lambert, who now has 10 goals in 12 games in his best start ever, scored the winner just 73 seconds later. "I had good wood on my second goal. I shot the puck right away because I could see an opening at the side of the net and couldn't take a chance and wait."

Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman says the Canadiens and the Sabres, who eliminated Montreal from the Stanley Cup playoffs last year, are playing the same type of defenseoriented game this season.

"The Sabres are improving on their defense and their goals against as we are," he said. "We are both stressing more defense and that's why this game was so close."

Bowman also credited the win to the new line of Lambert, Doug Risebrough, Yvon Cournoyer. He moved Cournoyer onto the line in place of Mario Tremblay in Montreal's 4-0 win over New York this weekend.

Gilbert Perreault scored an unassisted goal for the Sabres in the first period and Jacques Richard got another unassisted goal in the second session as Buffalo went ahead 2-0.

Scoring Stats Out . . . Where's Espo's Name?

BOSTON (UPI) — The latest National Hockey League scoring statistics have been released and — hey, where's Phil Esposito's name?

There it is down in the middle of the page along with three others tied for ninth place.

Ninth place? In the past seven seasons, the only player ever to beat him out for the scoring title has been Bobby Orr.

Then where's Orr?

He's out on the practice ice trying to skate his left knee back into shape after it was the subject of surgery in September for the fourth time.

Well, if Esposito only has 16 points in 11 games and Orr hasn't even played, who's doing the bulk of the Bruins' scoring?

No one, really. That's why they're in third place in the Adams Division, already seven points back of Buffalo, whom they play Wednesday night in Buffalo. In 11 games, the Bruins have scored 47 goals for less than a 4.4 average, as opposed to a 4.3 goal per-game mark last season. And thus far they've given up one more goal than they've scored, while last season the [illegible] average was barely over 3.0.

The situation looks a little better after Sunday night's 5-0 victory over the California Seals in a game marked by Esposito's sixth goal of the season. But when examined alongside an 8-1 loss the previous night to the Stanley Cup champion Flyers in Philadelphia, the Sunday win is not that impressive.

"Let's say I feel 50 per cent better" after Sunday's win, said second-year Boston Coach Don Cherry. "But there still is an awful lot of work to be done. I can't say I feel really comfortable."

Cherry's uncomfortableness will be eased somewhat when Orr returns to action. The star defenseman, who had a leagueleading 135 points last season, should return within two weeks. The Bruins are less certain of the return date of winger Don Marcotte, out since the season's second game with hyperextension of the knee.

Rule Is Changed . . . Eileen Can Go to Meet

PORTCHESTER

A rule has been changed and Eileen Casey has the green light to run in Saturday's Intersectional Cross Country meet in Buffalo.

Ms. Casey is the Kingston High School sophomore who won the girls division of the Section One cross country championships last weekend but was told the section would not send her or the other top female finishers to the state meet.

The section has previously ruled that it would not send the winners of any sport in its first year on the sectional level to a state championship until that sport was judged as to the extent of its participation.

"The girls will run," Section One Executive Secretary Bob Douglas of Portchester told the Freeman this morning. "The section took a look at its policy and we've decided that whenever a sport is contested within Section One and is followed by an intersectional meet, the kids will go. Originally we wanted to see the extent of participation in a new sport to see if it warranted going into the intersectionals. We reevaluated that policy."

Douglas emphasized that the policy change was made "not just to accommodate the girls."

Had the rule not been changed, Kingston High School Athletic Director Bill Hurley revealed today, the local school district was prepared to meet the issue head-on by sending Eileen to Buffalo and challenging the Section's right to deny her participation in the meet.

"We had the full support of the school board on this," Hurley said.

Section One officials, however, were not aware of the Kingston plan when they met Monday night to reevaluate the ruling.

Eileen, who had been a member of Kingston's girls track team last spring and decided to run cross country this fall to keep in shape, did far more than that, capturing all but one race (the Westlake Invitational, in which she lost to a Connecticut girl). She capped the season with victories in the Dutchess County Scholastic League meet and then last Saturday in the Section One meet with a time of 14:49 for the 2.4 mile Blue Mountain course.

Now Eileen has the opportunity to add the State crown to her collection.

SPORT PARADE

Milton Richman,
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the basketball people get together and start telling stories on themselves, someone generally remembers how Butch van Breda Kolff had a rule with the Los Angeles Lakers whereby none of his players were permitted to eat anything during half-time.

One night the clubhouse boy brought in three hot dogs swathed in mustard and a bottle of orange soda pop during intermission. van Breda Kolff spotted the contraband immediately.

"Who's that for?" he barked.

The clubhouse boy had no intention of standing there and lying.

"For him," he said, pointing to Wilt Chamberlain, waiting impatiently for his groceries.

Realizing full scale confrontations have resulted from far less, and there still was another half to be played, van Breda Kolff looked at the three hot dogs and then said to Chamberlain, "well, eat 'em fast!"

If the ability to adjust is a sign of intelligence, and sociologists agree it is, then Butch van Breda Kolff is anything but stupid.

When he found the combined egos of Chamberlain, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor robbed him of his coaching effectiveness with the Lakers, he didn't bother hiding his feelings. Next thing you know van Breda Kolff was no longer the coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, but the ex-coach.

Next stop was Detroit and van Breda Kolff left there after a little more than two seasons because he felt the home fans were persecuting the Piston players, after which he coached the Phoenix Suns for seven games, long enough only to determine he couldn't possibly motivate their players. Then came a hitch with the ABA's Memphis Tams, owned then by Charlie Finley.

Finley never interfered with the Memphis operation. That was one of the troubles. Everytime van Breda Kolff tried to reach him on the phone, he couldn't. Finley simply wasn't that interested and the team finished last.

The ABA took over the Memphis franchise and van Breda Kolff eventually found himself out of a job again. You'd think that would've cured the 52-year-old New Jerseyite of coaching professional basketball teams, especially last-place ones, but when the New Orleans Jazz, losers of 15 of their first 16 games, offered him the coaching job a year ago after firing Scotty Robertson, he thought it over only one day and accepted.

van Breda Kolff knew right quick this one wasn't going to be easy.

He had a collection of veterans and kids plus Pistol Pete Maravich, whom the Jazz had given so much in return for that the Atlanta Hawks were accused of perpetrating "the worst rape since the Louisiana Purchase."

"I may be dumb but I'm not completely stupid," says van Breda Kolff. "I knew we weren't winning with what we had and it was obvious we weren't going to win with the same players."

van Breda Kolff made changes, adding Nate Williams, Henry Bibby and Otto Moore, dropped by the Pistons. He let go Neal Walk, Jim Barnett and Ollie Johnson.

"We played young kids," says van Breda Kolff. "They don't care what your record is All they care about is just let's play!"

New Orleans still finished last in the NBA's Central Division with a 23-59 record, but the big thing was that the team was 18-17 in its last 35 games.

Now with a new season under way, the Jazz are on top in their division. They lost the first game and won the next five. Last season they didn't register their fifth victory until Jan. 17. Playing in the new Superdome in New Orleans, the Jazz have suddenly become the new "darlings" of the city.

van Breda Kolff is primarily responsible for the drastic change in the team although he insists it's far more due to the players. He pays particular credit to Moore and to Maravich, who worked hard during the off season to get in better physical shape

More than anything else, the 27-year-old Maravich seems to have matured, and the difference in his all-round performance has been dramatic It's evident in some of the things which don't get into the scorebook like calling a play instead of trying to drive in by himself, not forcing a break and being the leader he was always expected to be.

Everyone is eager to know if the Jazz are the real thing. Have they simply gotten themselves completely orchestrated or will they inevitably go flat?

"If I knew that I'd go to Wall Street and make a million," says van Breda Kolff. "All I'm doing now is listening to what some of the other coaches have to say about us. They say we're not too bad a ball club."

'Marse' Joe McCarthy A Yankee Even at 88

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (UPI) — On Oct. 2, 1950, "Marse" Joe McCarthy stepped down as manager of the Boston Red Sox and an era came to an end.

"Marse" Joe, who guided the New York Yankees to seven World Series championships during the days of such legends as Lou Gehrig and and Joe DiMaggio, left baseball for health reasons after a career that began in 1907.

The man who never played in the major leagues retired to the life of a country squire after manipulating big league teams on the field for 24 years and producing eight American League pennants and one National League Flag in addition to the World Series championships. He never piloted a second division team in the big time.

A coldly efficient man, McCarthy was chided by opposing managers for being a "push-button manager," or one who directed his teams with calculated indifference.

But no one can deny his methods got results.

His most notable accomplishments came after he was named pilot of the New York Yankees in 1931. His 1932 powerhouse won the World Series and starting in 1936, the Yankees captured four straight world championships.

He guided New York to three more pennants and two series crowns before illness forced him to leave baseball briefly in 1946. He returned in 1948 and managed the Red Sox to two consecutive second-place finishes, narrowly missing AL flags.

But his health intervened and he stepped down for good.

That was 25 years ago, and today, "Marse" Joe lives in a colonial house on a sprawling 57-acre farm in this Buffalo suburb.

His wife died in 1971 at the age of 84 after a long illness and McCarthy, who describes his health as "fair," has a housekeeper to take care of him.

"You could say I'm feeling not so pretty good," he says with a chuckle.

The oldest living member of baseball's Hall of Fame, who will be 89 next April 21, says he never expected to reach 50.

"My mother told me when I was real young I'd never reach 50 unless I dressed warm and in woolens," he says. "I said 'Mother, I'll never make 50.' That was awfully old in those times."

More than two years ago he underwent surgery for eye cataracts, but recovered nicely.

McCarthy spends all his time on his farm and age has slowed him down.

But he did manage to catch some of the recent World Series between Boston and Cincinnati on television.

"I watched quite a bit of it," he said. "It was a very good series, with a lot of good plays and a lot of good hitting and fielding."

But he refuses to be drawn into an argument about whether baseball is better now or in "the good old days."

"You can't make comparisons between this series and the ones we played," he said. "Everybody thinks their day is the best. The old time fighters think they were better than the new fighters, and the new fighters think they're better than the old timers."

However, he does have a special regard for four one-time Yankees.

"Lou Gehrig was my favorite, along with Bill Dickey," he says, adding that he also thought of Lefty Gomez as a top clutch pitcher and DiMaggio as the "most natural player I have ever managed."

"Marse Joe" calls his estate "Yankee Farm," and uses a Yankee dugout blanket to keep his legs warm.

Someone once said, "Once a Yankee, always a Yankee." "That's right," McCarthy says without hesitation.

Orioles Name Hank Peters

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Henry J "Hank" Peters, a veteran baseball man who has worked for four major league clubs, has been named executive vice president and general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Peters replaces J. Frank Cashen, who resigned as general manager to take a job with the newly formed Carling National Brewery.

Peters will take over Dec. 15. Terms of his contract were not announced.

For the past four years, Peters, 51, has been president of the National Association Professiona Baseball Leagues in St. Petersburg, Fla

Asked to asses the Orioles, Peters said, "I notice there's an imbalance of right and lefthanded hitting and we're going to have to shore up the lefthanded hitting. We're also going to need some help in the bullpen."

Record Price For Trotter

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The record price for a yearling trotter was paid Monday night at the 37th annual Standardbred Horse Sales at the State Farm Arena.

The colt, Courtney Hanover, bred and consigned by the Hanover Shoe Farm of Hanover, Pa., was purchased by Melville T. Barr of Ottawa, Ontario, for $140,000.

According to the United States Trotting Association, the previous record yearling auction price for a trotter was the $113,000 paid for the colt Speedy Streak in 1965. Speedy Streak won the 1967 Hambletonian, harness racing's greatest prize. The record price for any harness yearling was the $210,000 paid for the pacing colt Good Humor Man in 1971.

The bidding on Courtney Hanover started at $20,000 and progressed principally in $5,000 jumps to the record sum. Courtney Hanover is by Star's Pride out of the mare Crystal Rodney.

Barr, who is in the construction, land-development and cattle business in Ontario entered harness racing last year when he purchased the pacing yearling Beautron Hanover for $37,000 Beautron Hanover was a season's leader and encouraged Barr to buy Courtney Hanover, whom he saw showed twice at Hanover Shoe Farm. Barr said "his gait is perfect; he is an amazing colt with great natural ability. I wanted to buy an outstanding trotting colt and filly and I did."

The second high price of the first day of the sale was the $57,000 Barr paid for the trotting filly Starqueen Hanover (by Formal Notice-Stardel Hanover).

Barr hasn't selected a trainer for the youngsters but they will leave this week for Orlando, Fla., for training.

New Paltz Boots Ketcham

NEW PALTZ

Ketcham High managed to stay with the New Paltz soccer team as far as the first overtime here Monday, but after that the game belonged to the Huguenots.

Bob Durkin drilled home his second goal of the day on a penalty kick in the first extra period that sparked the winners to a 3-1 triumph over the Indians in New Paltz's final game of the season.

Hugie Coach Gene Ventriglia said, "We dominated the overtimes. It was a well played, even game, but at the end we were motivated. It meant the difference being 8-5-1 or 7-6-1. And Durkin played a great game."

Durkin opened the scoring in the second quarter, beating Ketcham goalie Ken Kircher unassisted at 16 minutes of the period. Ketcham, though, got an equalizer 12 minutes after the half on a shot by Todd Argy.

Durkin had a chance to decide things in regulation time and uncorked a good shot in the fourth period, but Kircher made a fine save that served to delay the outcome for the double overtime.

Right back at the Ketcham net as the OT began, Durkin again came within range. This time he was dumped in the penalty area, was awarded the shot, and slammed it home for the winning goal. The Hugies padded the margin in the second overtime when Mike Weiss converted an assist from Fred Schmalkuche.

Meagher, Truth Cop Flag Football Titles

KINGSTON

Meagher and Sojourner Truth captured divisional championships in the Kingston City Schools flag football tournament Meagher whipped Chambers School, 20-6 for the A Division crown, while Sojourner Truth knocked off Anna Devine, 6-0.

Mike Ferraro scored two touchdowns and Scott Ashdown added another to help the Meagher victory. Meagher gained the finals by beating George Washington and Edson. Chambers advanced past Sophie Finn and J. F. Kennedy.

Charlie Gaunt and Ron Henderson powered the Sojourner Truth running attack to victory. Zena and Lake Katrine fell to the eventual champs in the preliminary round while Devine eliminated Port Ewen and Hurley enroute to the finals.

Women's Cagers Meet

Buckley Rolls to Win

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Roy Buckley of Columbus, Ohio, continued his hot streak Monday night by winning the $55,000 Canada Dry Open at Westgate Lanes, his second Professional Bowlers Association championship in three weeks.

With the $6,000 winners share, Buckley pushed his yearly earnings to $41,773, his best year since joining the tour in 1968.

In the final round of match play, Buckley defeated Cliff McNealy of San Lorenzo, Calif.

Steve Neff of Sarasota, Fla., was third, Mark Roth of Staten Island, N.Y., fourth, and Dale Glenn of Los Angeles fifth.

Buckley won the AMF Regional Champions Classic at Newark, Ohio, two weeks ago. He seemed to put the title out of reach with a 278-215 victory over Ron Lisher of Santa Rosa, Calif., in the fourth game Monday night. McNealy tried to close the gap with a 1,033 in winning three of his last four games, but Buckley shot well enough, 975 in splitting four games, to hold on.

George W. Erts, one of the last survivors of the vanishing breed of Catskill Mountain men, dissents from the newly published Guide to the Catskills on the subject of the height of Slide Mountain.

The Guide lists the elevation of Slide as 4,180 feet. Not so, says Erts. The proper figure is 4,204 feet.

"A U.S. Geological Survey made in 1905 and corrected in 1916 both show Slide as being 4,204 feet high," writes Mr. Erts. As a small boy I grew up about five miles airline southwest from the top of Slide and often hunted in and around the top of the mountain."

"On May 30, 1900, William B. Curtis and Allen Ormsbee, both members of a club called the Fresh Air Club, marked a new trail from the southwest side of Slide meeting the old trail far up on the mountain."

Erts says the trail was cut "by my father, George W. Erts Sr., early in June of 1900 and I still remember both Curtis and Ormsbee very well and remember my father cutting out this trail.

Tragedy befell Curtis and Ormsbee, when they attempted to climb Mount Washington in New Hampshire on June 30, 1900. They were caught in a most unseasonal, severe snow and windstorm and both were frozen to death. Their bodies were found the next day.

Curtis was an elderly man and his body was found quite a distance from the summit of the mountain. Ormsbee was a younger man and his body was found very close to a cabin near the top of the mountain.

In 1901, the Fresh Air Club erected a granite trail post on the Old Denning East Branch Road leading from Big Indian at the point where the Curtis and Ormsbee trail left the highway leading toward the top of Slide mountain which is almost on the line between the Town of Denning and the Town of Shandaken.

The monument or mark reads, "Curtis and Ormsbee Trail to Slide 1900." The last time I saw this marker, some vandals had carved on the monument and later some would-be sportsmen had used the monument as a target and several pieces had been shattered from the side of the marker.

"After my father's death in 1919, I cut the trash from this trail until 1936.

Sports Afield has called him possibly the best whitetail hunter in America. His 41 bucks over the past 42 years average out to 193.8 pound, 7.6 pointer. Many sportsmen have read his controversial articles in the magazine and many disagree with his style of hunting.

He is a tracker who likes to out-think that buck in front of him. He prefers to dress in green while hunting. He hunts only for trophy bucks. His name is Larry Benoit, a Vermonter who is a living legend to many deer hunters throughout America.

Now Benoit has put his years of deer hunting experience into a book, "How to Bag the Biggest Buck of Your Life," ($5.95 The Whitetail Press, Duxbury, Vt. 05676). The book in soft cover is available by mail order from The Whitetail Press. Each copy is autographed by Benoit and is also available as hardcover as the December selection of the Field and Stream Book Club.

There is a lot of unusual deer savvy in this 183-page heavily illustrated book, even for the expert hunter. Benoit has a gift for colorful language and commonsense attitude about deer hunting. Many of his tips are so simple that you wonder why you never thought of them yourself.

He tells how to dress for the hunt, how to find the deer, how to read sign, how to track, shoot, gut, hang and even cook your buck. He explains that most bucks prefer to circle, and usually bed down in the same area every night.

Benoit tells the reader how to recognize at a glance a buck track from a doe track and how to tell by reading the sign when a buck is only a few yards ahead of you. He also discusses how to see your buck before he sees you and how to snap shoot at a moving target.

Benoit is a native Vermonter of Iroquois and French-Canadian stock who learned to hunt for survival during the Depression. His teacher was his father, also recognized as a legendary deer hunter.

The Benoit home in Duxbury, Vt. is laden with trophy heads and retired deer rifles. It looks like a museum. During the deer season there are usually three or more huge trophy bucks hanging in front of the house, all shot by Benoit and his sons.

There is a deer lore book that every hunter should read and reread. It is a fine deer book written by a dyed-in-the-wool, backwoods deer hunter who knows what he is talking about from a half century of successful hunting experience.

The New York Big Game Guide for 1975 can be a bit confusing with respect to deer and bear dates. However, just to make sure — the bear-deer (big game season) is consistent in the Southern Zone (Ulster, etc.) from Nov. 17 through Dec. 9.

Joe Guadagne of Highland won first prize, a fully-equipped 16-foot Lincoln Canoe, for landing the largest entry in the Largemouth Bass division of the New Paltz Rescue Squad's contest. He pulled a 7 lb., 5 oz. lunker from Nuicci Pond to top all entries.

Early division winners included Craig O'Banks of Mayrook, 8 lb., 2 oz. Brown Trout in the Pepacton Reservoir; Bill Tallon, Milton, carp, 13 lb., 5 oz., Hudson River; Tony Zagorini, New Paltz, 4 lb. 5 oz. pickerel in Schrower's Pond and Jim Chamberlain, Rifton, 3 lb. 6 oz. Smallmouth bass, Ashokan Reservoir.

A First for New York

Meow, 2 year old colt from the stable of Louis Resnick, Ellenville, N.Y., garnered honors as the first horse on Pompano Park's training track which opened Nov. 1. Meow went through the opening workout under the direction of Trainer William Trees. Mesa was sired by Overcall, former pacing star, but was named in honor of his dam, Kitty Hanover. Pompano Park's 13th harness racing season will open Nov. 20.

Soccer Club Booters Capture Invitational

SAUGERTIES

Rosendale Sport Club and Kingston Soccer Club made it to the finals of the Hudson Valley Soccer League Invitational Tournament here over the weekend. But when it got down to the moment of decision, it was no contest.

Rosendale won two games to reach the championship round and Kingston was 3-0. That's where the similarity ended. The more experienced KSC booters routed their county neighbors 5-1 and 4-0 to take home the first place trophy in the double elimination event. Rosendale settled for consolation honors.

Kingston got by its toughest opponent — Rhinebeck Sport Club — 3-1 in the first round and 1-0 in the crucial semi-finals. They also routed Germania Club Old Timers of Poughkeepsie, 4-1.

Germania and Columbia County tied 2-2 in a first round match, with Germania winning the game on penalty kicks 3-0. Rosendale edged Saugerties 2-1, Rhinebeck zipped Columbia 3-0. Saugerties won 5-4 on penalty kicks after a 2-2 tie with Rhinebeck.

After Rosendale zipped Poughkeepsie and Kingston blanked Rhinebeck by identical 1-0 scores to set the stage for the finals in which two wins were required to take the championship.

"It was our best performance in two years," said coach Joel Tomson of the Kingston club. "We scored 17 goals in the tournament."

John Robinson, the ex-KHS star, led the Sport Club with six goals and Sonny Ronconcio had five. A new addition to the team, Steve Hewett of England, produced three goals. "He will be a big help to us," said Tomson, looking ahead to next season.

Loudd Trial Begins Today

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Prospective jurors in the drug trial of former professional football promoter Rommie Loudd will be questioned individually to determine if pretrial publicity has clouded their objectivity.

Circuit Judge W. Rogers Turner laid out the ground rules Monday for the trial, which begins here today. Loudd is accused of dealing in cocaine while at the helm of the now-defunct World Football League Florida Blazers.

"We want to make sure that pretrial publicity will not affect the jurors' ability to decide the case based on evidence presented," Turner said of his decision to question prospective panelists individually instead of in a group.

Loudd's Miami attorney, Ellis Rubin, filed a motion last Aug. 27 to allow live television coverage of the trial, claiming it was the only way his client could get a fair trial because of publicity in the case.

Turner denied the motion on grounds live TV coverage of trials is prohibited under Florida rules of legal procedure and the judicial code of ethics. Rubin was allowed to join in a suit before the Florida Supreme Court seeking to change the state rules.

Loudd, a college and pro player who turned to coaching in 1966 and subsequently worked his way to the front office of football with the fledgling World Football League, actually faces three trials on charges of delivery of cocaine, conspiracy to deliver cocaine and embezzlement of state sales tax monies.

Turner said Monday he will set dates for the other Loudd trials when he finds out if attorneys can agree on a jury in Orange County.

Rubin said he planned to get a deposition from Cecil Johnson, the Blazers' former legal advisor, who was arrested with Loudd on March 8 and sentenced Sept. 19 to 14 years in prison for delivery of heroin.

Mike May Be the Best Of the Thomas Brothers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Little Brother" of the Thomas family of Greenville, Tex., is making it big in pro football like his two older brothers and thinks his mother may be rooting a little harder for him.

Rookie Mike Thomas of the Washington Redskins is following the National Football League trail covered by Jimmy Thomas, recently retired as a San Francisco running back, and Earl, a top-notch wide receiver with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The fifth-round draft choice from Nevada-Las Vegas was a television standout in a Monday night game against the Cardinals last month when he rushed for 100 yards and plunged for two touchdowns to lead the Redskins to a 27-17 win.

Earl told his 22-year-old brother prior to the kickoff: "Good luck to you, Little Brother. I hope you play well but we're going to whip your butts."

After Mike's star performance on national video, the Cardinal pass-catcher grudgingly acknowledged: "At least, he kept it in the family."

Mike conjectured that his mother, watching the game on television, "kind of rooted for me because I am the baby of the family."

One of the few rookies to crack a George Allen starting line-up, Thomas produced another star effort with two more touchdowns and 124 yards rushing in Washington's 23-7 victory over Cleveland this year.

He not only had to overcome Allen's aversion to rookies, he also faced another obstacle at the Redskin's Carlisle, Pa., training camp—the presence of Larry Brown, the only runner in Washington history to rush for more than 1,000 yards a season.

Brown, however, was recuperating from off-season knee surgery and the phyaical battering of six pro campaigns, and Thomas was used extensively in the preseason games while Brown gingerly worked out on his own without seeing combat.

Despite the rookie's impressive exhibition statistics, Allen wasn't ready to undertake a youth movement at the expense of experience and Brown started the first three Redskin regular season games. But Thomas' 100-yard performance against the Cards convinced Allen. The newcomer had his first pro start in a losing game against the Houston Oilers and was tapped again at Cleveland and for the big showdown game with Dallas Sunday, in which he gained 61 yards on 23 carries.

In his first six games, he averaged 4.1 yards per carry and demonstrated astonishing poise by going without a fumble or a dropped pass against the Browns.

He found an instant rooter on the Redskin bench. It was Larry Brown whose glory days may be over.

"I'm all for Mike Thomas," the former No. 1 running back says. "If there's any way I can help him I will. If by blocking, I can help Mike make 2,000 yards, it's just as much satisfaction as if I were doing it."

"The thing about Mike is that he's quick, smart and durable. He's doing what's necessary for us to win. And of course, he's shifty and doesn't take a lot of hard licks up front. I used more power and wasn't that shifty."

The new rapid-fire runner is getting acceptance from Allen's Over-the-Hill-Gang as well. Of his performance against Cleveland, he said with a grin:

"In the huddle, some of the veteran linemen told me: 'Hey, babe, we're going to open the holes and you run.'"

Little Brother is growing up quick.

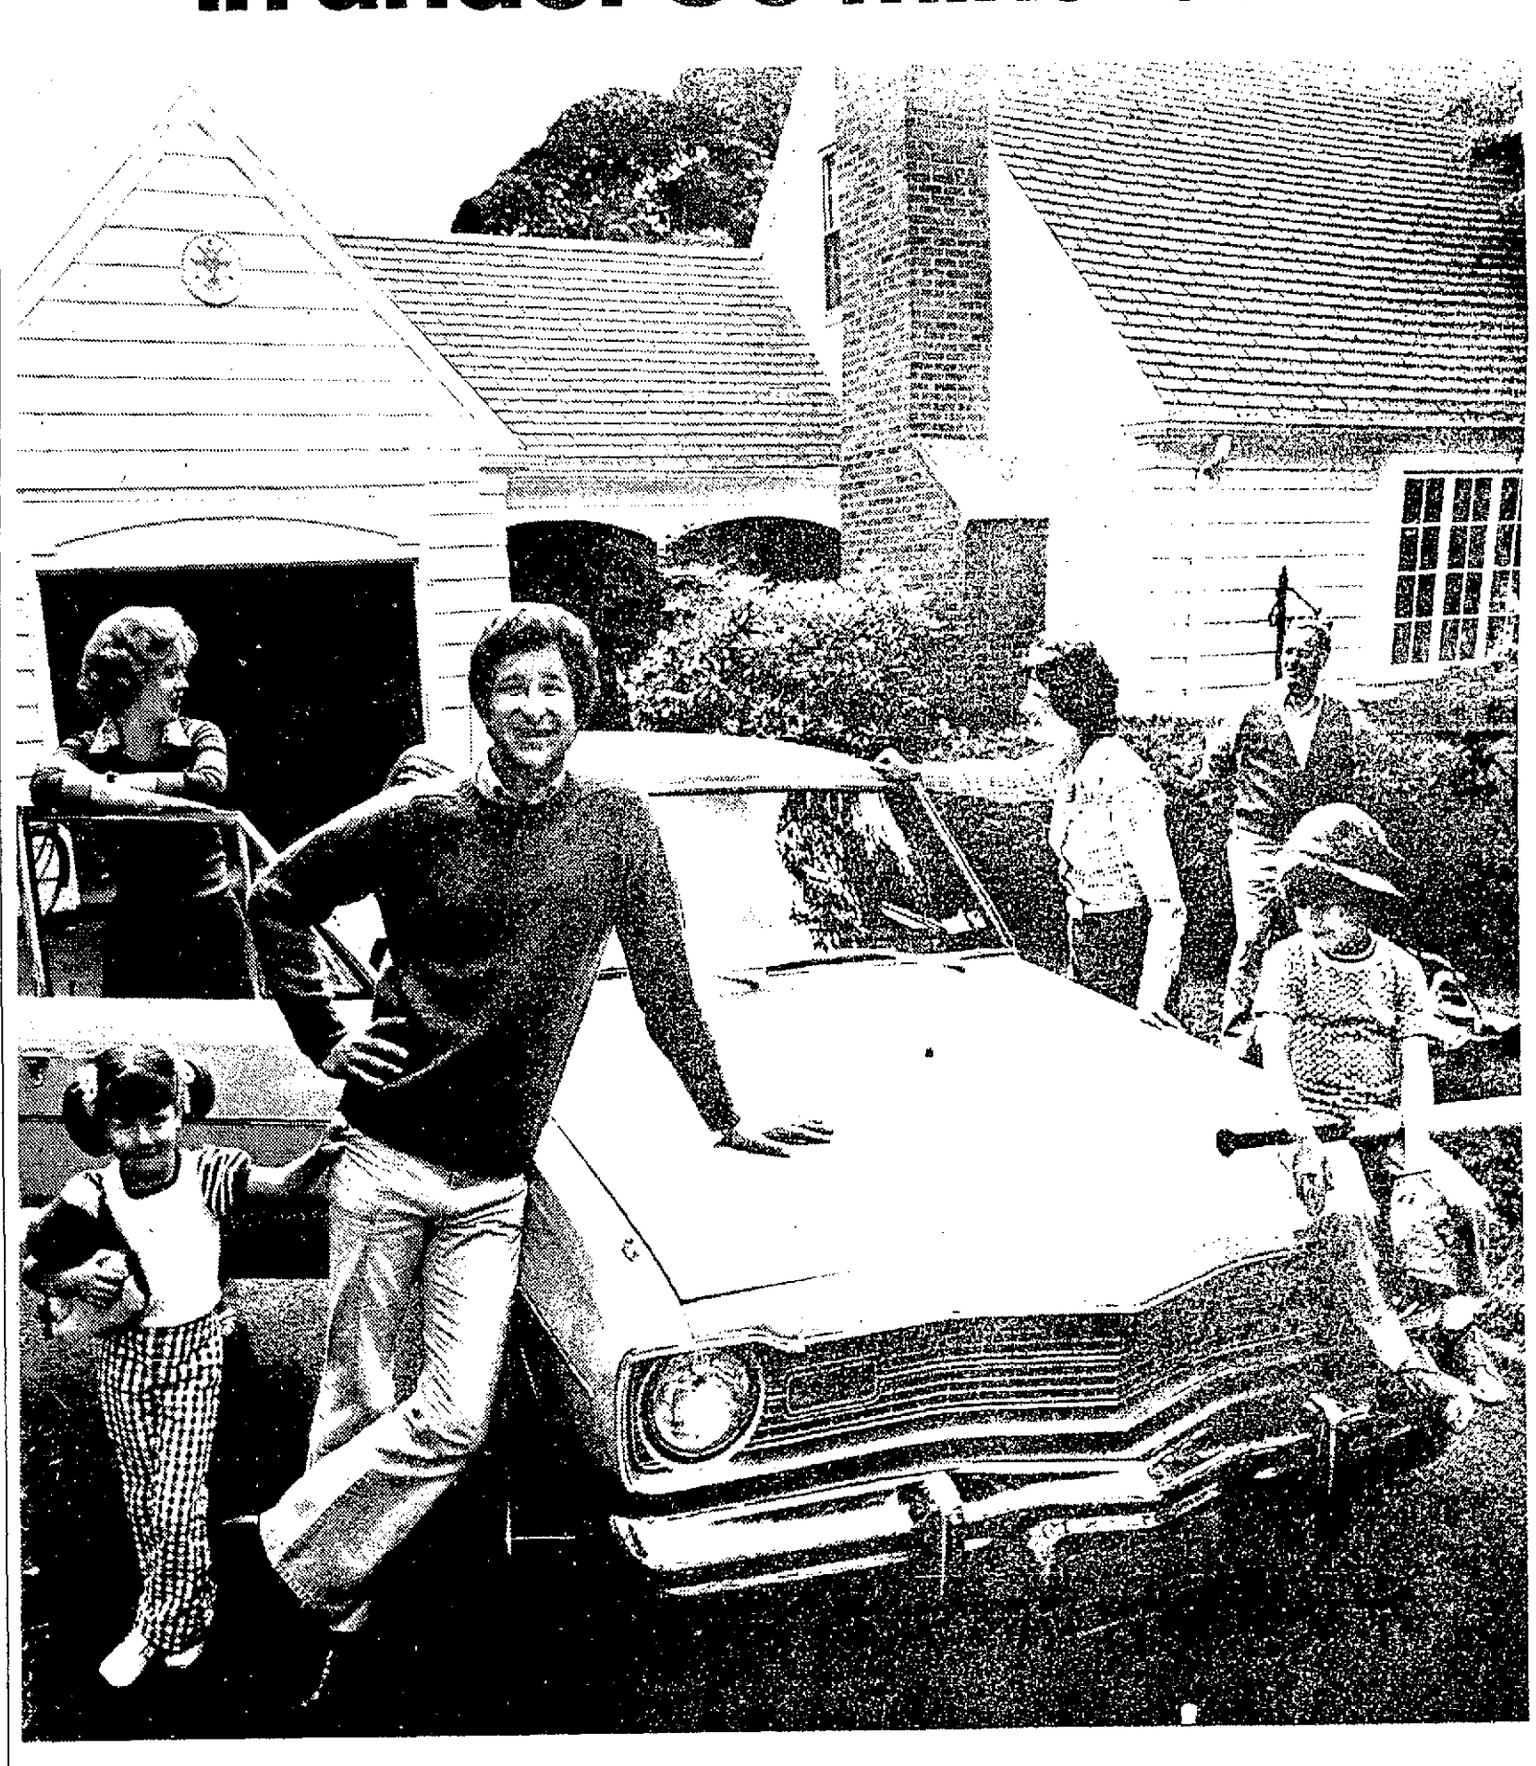
"Chase car loans can go from '0' to $3,100 in under 60 minutes."



"I found the perfect second car. All I had to do was show up with $3,100 before somebody else did. I needed a loan fast. That's when I learned about the Chase Advantage. I explained why I was in such a hurry, and the people at Chase shifted into high gear. I had that loan in under 60 minutes and owned my new car 45 minutes later."

Every Chase loan is fast. Because Chase tries to clear your loan in less than 24 hours, even when you aren't in a rush. And getting your loan fast is just the start of the Chase Advantage.

You can reserve your Chase loan for up to 100 days before you use it. So you have time to shop around for the best deal. When you decide on the car you want, your friends at Chase has the money waiting for you. Or, if you have Chase credit, you can apply for the loan automatically.

You can borrow money from Chase for cars, home improvements, or just about any good reason. But the Chase Advantage means a lot more to you than getting a loan. Chase has more ways to give you an advantage than new cars have options. So for checking, savings and [illegible] Chase Advantage.

LIFE TODAY

Gerald Silverman, a freshman at SUNY at New Paltz, and his grandmother, Helen Elliott, piano teacher and senior citizen, is auditing a class in counterpoint at the college. No generation gap here. (Freeman photo)

'Education's Good for Everyone'

Grandmother Returns to College

By Dorothy A. Narel

NEW PALTZ

Helen Elliott, senior citizen, mother and grandmother, has returned to the classroom at SUNY in New Paltz. And it appears a generation gap simply doesn't exist between herself and a grandson, Gerald Silverman, a freshman at SUNY, who just shrugs his shoulders and doesn't think there's anything unusual about the whole idea.

LIFE interviewed Mrs. Elliott, a Long Island widow residing in New Paltz with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Silverman, and discovered that since she is teaching less these days, (she is a piano teacher) and with more time on her hands, she decided to audit a class on Conterpoint. These classes and many more are open to senior citizens, free of charge, and without credit.

"I'll decide next semester if I'm going to take courses for credit," she said.

Mrs. Elliott is busy these days working on her lessons in counterpoint, Bach Baroque, a graduate course, and at the same time, continues to teach the recorder, piano and pre-instrument classes.

What does this accomplished senior citizen think about music these days? "Interest is not being sustained," she told LIFE. "Music is being considered as 'frills' in the school system and not as necessary as the three R's. Music is being curtailed."

Getting back into an academic atmosphere is not strange in any way for Mrs. Elliott for she has never actually been out of it. Through the years she has taken and given workshops. At the age of 16 she won a scholarship to Julliard, known at that time as the Institute of Musical Art.

"They were preparing me for the concert field but I wanted to teach. You didn't get any credits then but I stayed three and a half half years leaving in my fourth year. While I never concertized, I did play with ensemble and chamber groups," she said.

"Education is such an important thing in one's life," Mrs. Elliott continued. I certainly encourage senior citizens returning to the classroom—more should do it."

The New Paltz piano teacher emphasizes that one shouldn't lose hold of learning and experience in the class room. She also endorses the school contact between senior citizens and young people. "It's refreshing and keeps you in tune with the contemporary world," she agrees. She also spoke about several of her friends who keep busy and active despite their age. One of them is 90 and another is 86.

The academic atmosphere prevails in the home. Mrs. Elliott's daughter is an associate professor and teaches in the Campus Nursery School in New Paltz. Her grandson hopes to major in Communications.

Doing homework doesn't present any problems either between grandmother and grandson.

"When I have finished writing my music, I test it out on the piano but I can play so softly no one hears me."

As for Mrs. Elliott's favorite composers, she places Bach and Mozart in the same category.

"Education?—It's good for everyone of every age," Mrs. Elliott concludes.

Hubby Boosts Ego With Don Juan Stories

DEAR ABBY: My husband is either the world's biggest liar, or he must have something I'm not aware of.

George said he was through driving sitters home because they just won't leave him alone. He claimed the last one —a 16-year-old girl—practically attacked him in the car. (She's a Junior Achiever. Can you believe this?)

Another time, the minister's wife called and offered me some home-grown cucumbers. She said she had more than she knew what to do with, so I sent George over to get some.

When he came back he said the minister's wife tried to get him to "relax" on a mattress in her basement. Then she "begged" him to try some of her pineapple upside-down cake. He also claimed that to prolong his stay, she handed him one cucumber at a time!

He's always telling me how women can't resist him. Believe me, Abby, he's nothing special.

Should I pretend to believe him, call him a liar or what?

GEORGE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If George is making up these stories, he must feel the need to convince you (and perhaps himself) that he's desirable. If you call him a liar, you'll castrate him. Give his ego a boost instead, and he won't have to lie.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy, and I'm in the 10th grade. I gave my girl friend a wrist watch for her birthday, which caused her parents and mine (especially hers) to become very upset.

Her parents seem to think it was an "engagement" present, and they made her give it back to me.

My parents weren't quite so harsh, but they think it was a little too much for a boy of our age group to give a girl friend.

Abby, I didn't give her the watch to symbolize anything. I just wanted to give her something nice, and she needed a watch. It was very inexpensive.

My girl friend was heartbroken when her parents made her return it, and my ego was somewhat pounded into the ground. I realize that we are not old enough to become seriously involved, but I do think she should have been able to keep it.

What do you think? Please be open-minded.

T.L.

DEAR T.L.: It's not the cost but the kind of gift your parents objected to. Jewelry and personal attire (at any price) are too intimate for 14 year olds.

DEAR ABBY: Five years ago our daughter was hostess to her high school club, and the parents were invited, too. She entertained them in our home on a Sunday afternoon.

One of the fathers was fascinated by a cuckoo clock an aunt had brought me from Switzerland. He said the cuckoo was not emerging properly from the cage for its periodic cuckooing, and since clocks were his hobby, he insisted on taking it home for repairs.

This gentleman lives across town, our paths never cross, and I haven't seen him or the cuckoo clock since.

Perhaps the repairs were more time-consuming than expected, but I'm getting concerned. What should I do?

TIMELESS

DEAR TIMELESS: The "gentleman" who took your clock home is obviously for the birds. Contact him and tell him you're coming by to pick it up— if he hasn't already flown the coop, that is.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Noted Folk Singer to Perform at UCCC

JEAN RITCHIE

STONE RIDGE

Jean Ritchie, a well-known folk singer, will appear on the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College Nov. 9 and 10.

She will condut classes in dulcimer-making, the ballad and American folklore and also will entertain at a coffee house presentation and a recital. All the activities are open to the public without charge.

The coffee house program, sponsored by the Student Government Organization at UCCC, will be held at 9 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 9, in the College Lounge.

She will give a lecture on dulcimer-making and show a folklore film at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 10, in the Visual Arts Gallery in Vanderlyn Hall. Ms. Ritchie will present a recital that afternoon at 2 o'clock in the College Lounge in the same building.

The two-day program is being funded on grants from both the National Endowment for the Arts and the New York State Council on the Arts.

The New York Times has called Ms. Ritchie "one of the finest authentic traditional folk singers we have in the U.S. today."

She is the heir of a tradition that goes back to the pioneers who settled the Kentucky Cumberlands. Her forebearers lived in isolated areas where customs were tenacious and where songs were passed on from one generation to the next.

Ms. Ritchie was born in Viper, Ky., in the heart of the Southern Applachian Mountains, and sings the songs she learned from her family who migrated from Scotland in 1768 to become the first family to settle in the Troublesome Creek region of Kentucky.

She is widely consulted as a folk lorist and often has represented the U.S. at international folk lore conferences. In addition, she has appeared at the American Folklore Festival in Washington sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution.

SKY'S THE LIMIT

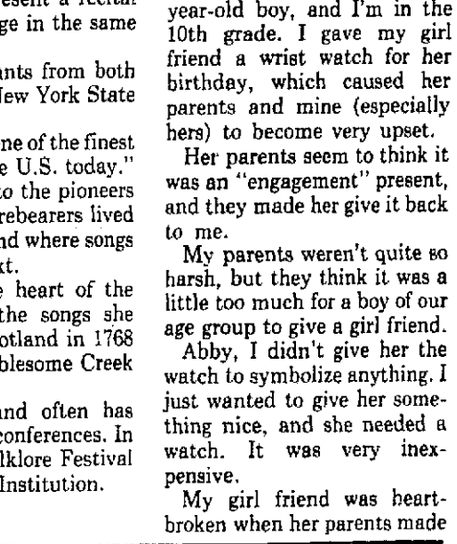
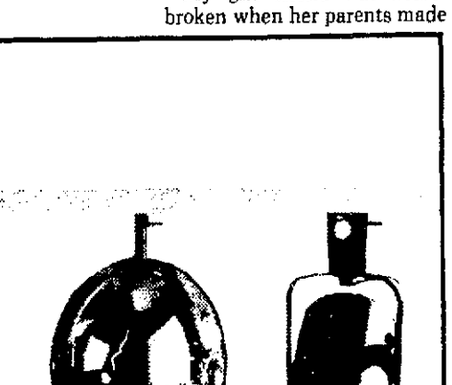
The sky is just about the only place you can't install a Lightolier Lytespan track system for accenting all the things you'd like to have noticed: artwork . . . bric-a-brac . . . fireplaces. If it suits your fancy, you can hang a colorful pendant for general room lighting.

You can even bring creative lighting to your living room without a ceiling power source. An extension can be connected to the track and unobtrusively run to a baseboard outlet. It's that simple.



Create lighting for bookshelves as well as piano and painting from a single ceiling outlet.



Pendants provide focal points plus downlight for serving a buffet, while wall sculpture is highlighted by spotlight.

Kiwanis Follies Slated

KINGSTON

"Freedom Follies" is the title of this year's Kiwanis Kapers, presented by the Kingston Kiwanis Club. President Albert O Sonnenberg has announced that this year's show will take place at the Kingston High School auditorium, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov 20, 21 and 22

The show, centered around this country's Bicentennial was written by club member Tom McInerney. He has somewhat altered the history to give the show the usual slapstick comedy, a trademark of all Kiwanis Kapers shows.

Members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club are now selling tickets, and patron tickets have been mailed

Tickets are also available at several retail establishments including Safford & Scudder Jewelers, Rafalowsky's, Colonial Cash Register in Kingston. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Over-all conditions are very favorable for you today, especially where major projects are concerned. Think big.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's no reason why you can't chalk up points today if you give your financial interests the attention they deserve

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partners will be luckier for you today than you'll be for yourself. In team efforts, let your mate or associate take the helm.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you need others to assist with a pet project, now is the time to ask their help. Circumstances will change if you wait too long.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Good things will happen through people you'll be involved with socially. Business mixed with pleasure is a lucky combination for you today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something rather unusual is deveolping. It will eventually contribute to your poesterity and well-being. A portion may surface today

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An excellent day to take a short trip. If there's somebody not too far away you've been wanting to see, hop in the car and go.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov. 22) Financial aspects are especially promising for you today. Don't leave any stones unturned in acquiring or saving a buck.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a very keen perception for important bits and pieces of information. You'll gauge the significance of things others will miss.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Follow your instincts in domestic or career matters today. They are "right on" and will solve some knotty problems if you don't let others dissuade you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Associate with people who have broad ideas and bold perspecitives today, if possible. Through them you can widen your own horizons.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The sky's the limit today in the endeavors you have been working on for some time. If you don't actually score, you are well on the way.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D

NONTALKER: (Q.) My best friend thinks she is good looking. She is always telling how some guy has commented on how pretty she is. She is very outgoing.

I am very shy. I can't talk to people like she can. She just keeps on talking. When we meet people, I just stand there because I can't talk. I need your advice on how I can start talking—Wordless in Michigan

(A.) It is not good to just keep on talking. Neither is it good to have to brag about one's good points. Your girl friend is mixed up. She may be more mixed up than you are.

Try to see those around you as just people—like yourself—all of them with problems. Tell yourself that they want and need a kind word, a friendly word, that just a word or two from you may be the best medicine they will get all day.

Then you can talk. But don't overdo it.

---

NEW BOY: (Q.) Joe and I have been going together since I was 12. I am 17 now Joe is very sweet but he is jealous and afraid of losing me.

Ron, who lives in Ohio, was here last month on a visit and I grew very fond of him. He seems to like me too He will be back for a visit in a month He is smart and so much more fun than Joe. What do I do?— Hooked in New Jersey

(A.) You branch out. You have discovered that Ron is more fun than Joe. There may be some boy right down the street in New Jersey who is more fun then Ron.

Like so many girls, you have spent all your time with one boy.

Be friendly with Ron, but be friendly with other boys too. Continue to be friendly with Joe if he is willing to be a friend and let you have others, too.

Some Luck in Duplicate Play

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If you played in the spring charity game, got to five clubs and made it, you should have the warm feeling of having bid and played this hand very well.

Opening lead — A ♥

If you bid six clubs and went down, you could always complain that you would have made it if the club finesse had worked. If you bid three notrump either after an opening notrump with 17 high-card points and a six-card club suit (a bid not recommended by either us or any other writers) or after a jump rebid in notrump (again not recommended but not really a bad call) your score would depend on the opening lead.

A prosaic fourth-best diamond lead against notrump would hold declarer to seven tricks, against any other suit lead he would make at least three notrump and might well make four or five for a really good, but rather undeserved score.

All in all, this hand shows that there is plenty of luck in duplicate bridge.

AREA NEWS TODAY

Police Seek Wallkill Escapee

WALLKILL

Area authorities today were seeking an inmate who escaped Monday afternoon form the Wallkill Correctional Facility in southern Ulster County.

State police identified the escapee as Amos Perry, 25, of Highland who was sentenced to a two to four prison term on a possession of stolen property charge in April of this year in Ulster County Court.

Perry was described as a white male, 5 feet 11, 165 pounds, with brown hair and green eyes. He was last seen wearing prison garb, a green coat and green pants.

Prison officials said Perry was working in a dairy barn at the medium security facility at about 3:30 p.m. Monday when he apparently walked off.

Asked if Perry should be considered dangerous, a prison official answered, "He was desperate enough to walk off so he might be desperate enough to do anything."

Anyone with possible information about Perry's whereabouts should call the prison or state police.

Police Beat

Trip Underway

Iron County, Utah, sheriff's deputies arrived in Ulster County Monday and left for the return to Utah, taking with them a 15-year-old Kingston-area juvenile who is slated to be tried on a murder charge in Utah.

The juvenile, an escapee from a Rochester-area training school, was picked up last month in the Town of Ulster by state police and admitted to two murders, one in Utah and one in Las Vegas, as well as numerous armed robberies.

The Utah victim was an as yet unidentified hitchhiker, whose body was discovered by authorities after the juvenile told them where to find it.

Hunting Accident

A 15-year-old West Hurley youth was listed in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital, suffering from a gunshot wound sustained Monday in a hunting accident.

State police said the injured youth, William Rose, was hunting in a wooded area in the Town of Hurley between Williams Lane and Zena Road with his brother, Kenneth Rose, 18, at about 3:45 p.m. when the mishap occurred.

Authorities said Kenneth Rose was attempting to unload a 20-gauge shotgun when the weapon discharged and several pellets struck his brother in the lower right leg.

Struck By Bullet

In another area shooting listed as accidental, 15-year-old Kathryn Johnston of Haines Falls was in fair condition today at Greene County Memorial Hospital after being struck in the leg Monday by a bullet from a .22-caliber revolver.

Police said she was seated in a car with Robert VanDermark, 20, of Catskill, when the weapon, owned by the girl's father, who has a permit for it, accidentally discharged.

VanDermark was charged with criminal possession of a weapon in the third degree in the incident, police said.

Paltz Action

New Paltz Police arrested Martin Stelling, 19, of Glendale, early today on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Police said they received a report of two suspicious males with a car. A computer check on the auto showed it was stolen, police said. The driver of the car fled on foot and was not caught, but police did capture Stelling, who they said was a passenger in the car.

Saugerties Board Orders Building Razed, 'Finally'

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Village Board finally got around to ordering the Knaust Building on Partition Street razed—nearly nine months after it burned and more than seven months after village firemen signed an affidavit calling it a safety hazard.

Fire Chief Ed Haines asked when the board was going to take action. He called the building at 222 Partition Street a fire hazard, an eyesore, and a potential health hazard, and said he had received numerous complaints from area residents.

Haines predicted that if it was not razed several property owners in the area would ask the village to lower their assessments because the fire-wrecked building was reducing the value of their properties.

Village Attorney Wilham Brinnier urged the board to act, saying that he had received written permission from the owner in March to have the building razed at village expense.

Trustee Walter Keefe asked why the village should be responsible for private property.

"Okay, let it stand," Brinnier replied "I'll get a court order to tear it down—in about 2½ years."

Trustee Charles Steele also questioned why the owner couldn't be required to do the work. "I hate to see taxpayers' money spent on this, but on the other hand I hate to see the building standing there," he said, before going along with the board's unanimous vote to have Public Works Superintendent William Voerg and village workmen remove the building.

The board also voted unanmously to authorize a $3,872,000 oond issue to cover total costs of the state-mandated sewage collection and treatment system, although it didn't have much choice in the matter.

Brinnier explained that the move was necessary to qualify the village for state and federal aid which comprises 87.5 per cent of the total cost. He said that the aid should be received before the bonds would have to actually be issued, but said the move was necessary to qualify for aid.

The board also directed Clerk-Treasurer Georgette Hughes to investigate interest rates for a bond anticipation note to pay off approximately $75,000 to the village's consulting engineers, Brinnier and Larios, and the village attorney for work they had done on the sewer project to date.

Both payments are fully reimbursable from federal and state aid. Brinnier noted.

The board, noting that no one had bid on a job for sandblasting the fire escape on the Municipal Building, directed Voerg to hire the work done and noted that no meetings are to be held in the clerk's office without the permission of Keefe, the building commissioner.

Lottery Investment Program Approved

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state lottery has gotten a legal go ahead from the state comptroller's office to use an investment program to guarantee payments to the three top winners in the special July 4th lottery.

The agency, wracked in recent weeks by allegations of double numbers and phantom winners, has been forced to suspend its drawings and sales pending a complete overhaul.

Seeking to break the pattern of bad news, Lottery Division Director Jerry Bruno told a specially called news conference Monday that Comptoller Arthur Levitt's office had given the lottery permission to invest prize funds from the July 4 drawing in government securities to guarantee the payments to the three top winners.

The top winners are to get, respectively, $1 million to be paid at $50,000 a year for 20 years; $500,000 at a rate of $25,000 a year for 20 years, and $250,000 at $25,000 a year for 10 years.

Bruno said the money to be invested in the government securities would come from the 40 per cent set aside from the lottery sale for prizes. Because it will be earning interest, the state will realize an undetermined extra amount of profit, depending on the amount of interest the securities return.

Obviously stung by the series of critical news accounts about the lottery, Bruno said the July 4 special drawing had taken in $6,253,165 and had already paid to the state's general fund $2,813,924

"I would hardly call that a loser," he said.

Bruno's announcement came just ahead of a stinging criticism by an Assembly agency.

Speaker Stanley Steingut said the study showed "massive, long-term deception in the awarding of prizes and allocation of profits," and call for legislation to "thoroughly revamp" the lottery.

The Brooklyn Democrat said the Office of Legislative Oversight and Analysis study showed "the lottery is solidly rooted in past mistakes and lost in a haze of misconceptions and deliberate misrepresentations. The blame is universal.

The study said the problems with the lottery went back through "three administrations" — those of former governors Nelson A. Rockefeller and Malcolm Wilson and current Gov Hugh L. Carey.

Bruno did not reply directly to a question of whether he had been asked by Carey to resign or if he had offered his resignation.

"I discovered the computer errors," he replied, "and I pointed them out. Should something happen because of that?"

The drawings for Oct 23 and the special drawing for Oct. 31 were postponed pending the studies by the comptoller's office and a private firm. Bruno said they would eventually be held and advised ticket holders to hang on to their purchases.

He also said that the lottery could gain public acceptance again "only if we show we have corrected the past mistakes."

Included in the mistakes, he conceded, were the drawing of unsold numbers which resulted in not all prizes being awarded and in the distribution of tickets.

Snyder Is Retiring

KINGSTON

Edward W. Snyder, administrative officer of the Ulster County Legislature, who is completing 24 years in public service has announced his retirement effective Oct. 30, 1975.

Snyder, a resident of Kingston started his public service career as secretary to former Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk. He served six years with Mayor Newkirk and four year with the late Frederick H. Stang, who succeeded Newkirk. He later received the appointment as legislative assistant to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson During this time he served in a dual role as secretary to the Ulster County Republican Committee when the late Assemblyman Wilson was county party chairman and continued in that capacity when John B. Sterley was GOP chairman.

In 1968 he joined the legislative staff of State Sen. Jay P. Rolison. Later in the year he received the appointment as clerk of the Ulster County Legislature and served in that position until December 1973.

Since January 1974, Snyder has served as administrative officer and budget officer, for the County of Ulster.

He is married to the former Marie Barry and has two sons, Gary and Glenn.
